PENSION FUNDS SHUN BUYING MORE BONDS FROM NEW YORK CITY

A Key Element in Plan to Pay Off Notes is Opposed by Adviser-Beame Seeks More Talks

By CHARLES KAISER

The chief consultant to New York City's employee pension funds said vesterday that he saw no possibility that the funds would buy more city bonds, a key element of the city's tentative plan to repay the holders of $1 billion in short-term notes.

"I for one do not see the possibility of additional commitments by the retirement systems" for the purchase of New York City or Municipal Assistance Corporation bonds, said Jack Bigel, the pension coosultant.

The purchase of some kind of new bond issue by the city's banks and pension funds is a critical part of a proposed twopart solution to the problems posed by the State Court of Appeals decision that invalidated the city's year-old moratorium. A spokesman for the city's bankswhich, together with the pension funds, have already bought $1.8 billion in M.A.C. bonds to help the city through its earlier fiscal difficulties - withheld comment yesterday on the newest city proposal.

WAGE-PRICE COUNCIL WORRIED

U.S. Steel, Bethlehem and Republic Follow Other Producers -Alcoa Sets Increase

By GENE SMITH

The nation's three leading steelmakers -the United States Steel Corporation, the Bethlehem Steel Corporation and the Republic Steel Corporation-announced yesterday that they would go along with the 6 percent increases on sheet and strip steel announced last week by the six other leading producers.

The moves made it virtually certain that the increases would become effective, analysts said. Only stiff opposition by large customers or by the Government, in the form of so-called jawboning, could forestall the increases. Neither group seemed to be vigorously opposing the increases yesterday even though the market for steel has been relatively weak and prices have been widely discounted. The Aluminum Company of America also said vesterday that it would increase

European Leaders Awaiting Carter Administration

By FLORA LEWIS Special to The New York Times

THE HAGUE, Nov. 29-The European Common Market leaders held their yearintentions of the new United States Administration and of the oil-producing countries.

As usual, Chancellor Helmut Schmidt of West Germany spoke most bluntly in explaining why Europe could now keep only one eye on Washington and one eye on the oil countries.

Briefing the press himself after the opeoing session this afternoon, Mr. Schmidt said: "There is no U.S. policy. We have to wait and we cannot take any decisions yet. It is all the more reason for both the industrial and the develoolog countries not to upset the difficult situation."

Other heads of government made more or less open appeals to the oil producers Mr. Schmidt took the firm line that it simply was not a question of whether or not one side made concessions to induce cooperation from the other. The very ability of the industrial countries to transfer resources to the developing lands depends on the price of oil and its impact on their economies, he declared.

German Proposal Was Expected

The Germans had told their partners at a recent meeting of Common Market foreign ministers that they would come up with a proposal on the north-south issue of all raw material prices. The expectation was that a German concession to third-world demands would enable the nine market nations to take a joint con-ciliatory attitude toward developing countries, which in turn might influence oil producers to hold off on a price in crease.

The oil countries, which are scheduled to meet in Qatar next month, have linked the petroleum price issue to the whole question of the transfer of wealth from north to south. They set no precise equation, but they trial goods and oil prices a little more favorably if the industrial countries promised important concessions to developing countries, specifically on the long-term raw materials issue and on debt elief.

It still is not ouite clear whether the Qatar meeting will be held as scheduled. The initial date. Dec. 15. was put in questime that a prominent Communist had artists, including several popular actors was a suggestion that the oil producers used the term "counterrevolution" in con- and actresses and Frank Baier, a leading would wait a little to see what happened for with the restiveness that has film director, have joined the protest.

National Universities of Latin America in Sharp Decline

in Argentina, a university-bred youth movement gave the late Juan Domiogo Peron the exciting aura he needed to return to the presidency after 17 years of exile.

But in the last decade, student politics took a radical new turn as the university's elite status came under attack from within its own cloisters.

Under the slogan, "The revolution passes through the university," students became the most important source of recruitment for urban guerrilla movements. And, in a phenomenon not entirely unrelated to guerrilla politics, an effort was made to force open the university gates to working-class youth.

University Enrollment Trebles

With the elimination of entrance exams in some countries and a deliberate government effort to dilute entrance requirements in other nations, university student eorollment has trebled in Latin America over the last decade. Either because of campus unrest or because of unwieldy. student bodies, the decline in educational standards has been dramatic, and the credentials of new graduating classes of lawyers, engineers, doctors, architects and other professionals are being increasingly questioned throughout the hemisphere. Argentina's system of higher education, once considered the hest in Latin America and worthy of comparison with some European universities, has suffered the most dramatic turnacout.

Plainclothesmen, with guns bulging be-neath ill-fitting suits, search visitors to the turn-of-the-century downtown huilding that houses the administration of the National University of Buenos Aires.

In the corridors, the grime of decades only a rudimentary writing ability and encrusts the formal portraits of forgotten were completely ignorant of Brazilian scholars and bronze plaques recalling a bygone era of academic excellence. A half-dozen professors, slouched in faded leather chairs in the fover, wait listlessly for long-overdue appointments with the new rector-the seventh in three years of violent turmoil at Argentina's leading university

According to the rector, Dr. Sol Libertario Rabassa, his immediate concerns are to reduce student enrollment and wipe out the vestiges of leftist influence at the university in keeping with the guide-lines set forth by the right-wing military regime that took power in a coup last university education "without any sys-March.

"The concept of an independent university left to its own affairs is unthinkable today," Dr. Rabassa said, "If we want order, we need professionals who know how to handle weapons to defend us. We need policemen in the university. In fact, the bloody 1973 coup, thousands of leftist I cannot intagine what would happen if they left."

the deterioration of the state system of higher education is also apparent in other major Latin American countries. In Mexico scores of thousands of university students participated in peaceful demonstrations in 1968 calling for politi-cal and economic reforms and an end to widespread government corruption. The then Minister of the Interior, Luis Echeverria Alvarez, directed a bloody re-pression that left at least 200 studeots

Most Teachers Aren't Paid

"Ten years ago. my seminar had 20 students," recalled an economics professor who has been at the National University of Buenos Aires for more than a decade. "All of them are now well known in international economic circles. Today, I have more than 150 students in my seminar, and 1,000 students in my regular class. I don't know their names or their backgrounds, and at the end of class I am hoarse from shouting out my leccures."

"The private universities may not offer better salaries," said a sociology professor who recently moved to the Catholic University, "but you can teach without worrying about being-denounced as a fas-cist or a Marxist. You can count on students showing up to class. You have li-braries with the books listed in the card catalogues."

The professor, who was dismissed from the National University of Buenos Aires for political reasons, said he had over-come his "prejudices against the Catholic University."

University in "Absolute Chaos"

"For me, the University of Buenos Aires was a more exciting place," he explained, "The students were more of a cross-section of Argentine society. The Catholic University is a lot more homogeneous The students are less politically conscious. But that does not matter to me anymore. The National University is absolute cbaos."

Perhaps one of the most impressive examples of the phenomenal growth of pri-vate universities in Latin America is the University of Belgrano.

Beginning in 1964 with 90 students and 12 professors in a dilapidated hotel in Belgrano, à fashionable residential neigh-borhood in Buenos Aires, the university today has 14,000 students, 1,200 profes-sors and 10 huildings. Tuition is $20 a month, high in these times of economic hardship. Several of its undergraduate and gradu

White Teachers Reject Black Merger in Louisiana... BATON ROUGE, La., Nov. 29 (AP)—An all-white Louisiana teachers organization roted down a proposed merger with its all-black counterpart in a move described by officials today as economic rather than, racial. Louisiana remains the cnly states with segregated teacher associations. Less than 4 percent of the 23,000 mem-bers of the white Louisiana Teachers As

Before the vote, officials had predicted that rejection might come from the blacks teachers, and Basile Miller, incoming presdent of the black group, was among oposition leaders.

But the black Louisiana Education Association, voting at a separate conven-tion last week, approved the merger by a 68 percent margin, with just under 18 percent of its 11,000 members casting ballots. Black teachers voted 1,335 to 599 in favor of the merger.

Proponents of the merger had argued that it would create a unified political front in a push for pay rises and bettern working conditions. But opponents stressed that a merger would bring a $35a-year rise in dues.

Little Voter Fraud Found In New Mail Registration, But the System Has Bugs

By RONALD SMOTHERS

New York City Board of Elections offi-cials said yesterday that there was little evidence of fraud resulting from the state's year-old mail voter registration system.

Early indications are that fewer than 10 percent of the nearly 468,000 mail registrants were improperly enrolled, the officials said.

Of those improperly enrolled most were taken off the rolls by the Nov. 2 general election, according to Betty Dolen, execu-tive director of the Board of Elections. But the process was delayed considerably by a flood of applications at the deadline with little time left to check and process the forms, she said.

Mrs. Dolen was among about 15 persons who testified at an Assembly Elections Committee hearing on mail registration at 2 World Trade Center. The committee was seeking suggestions on changes in the new system as well as impressions on how well it had worked so far.

Major Fraud Doubted

"I'm not convinced that there is an overwhelmiog amount of fraud." said the committee chairman, Assemblyman Melvin Miller, Democrat of Brooklyn. "I think the main problem was administration, and we'll iron that out io the second year." The major problem with the current system, according to most witnesses, is its dependence on the Postal Service for validation of new registrants in the short validation of new registrants in the short time available. With the mail registration period ending Oct. 4, the board had fewer than 15 days to mail out registration cards, according to Mrs. Doleo. The board's usual procedure is to invalidate the meriteration if the Poctal Service rethe registration if the Postal Service returns the card twice because of inability to deliver it.

The President-elect's advisers, some of whom approach the subject from different ideological perspectives, believe that Mr. Carter cannot wisely take a stand on the $24-billion bomber program without first making several broader policy decisions.

These have to do with the future of the manned bomber program, the strategic arms limitation talks with the Soviet Union and a general sense of what other issues might have to be debated with the military.

Arguments for Postponement

Soundings from the Carter organization indicate that Mr. Carter has not focused on the problem since the end of the Prestdential campaign, when he started to hedge his flat opposition to the bomber. As the campaign developed, he began saying, "I don't favor, at this point, continued construction of the B-1 bomber, but I do favor a continueo research and development program if it should be necessary in the future."

As matters now stand, the Pentagon and Rockwell International, the developer of the aircraft, are unying to arrange for and relatively in Mr. Carter to have until May to nake launched missiles. a decision and to give themselves more time to make their case. Some flights do not depart weekends. Check your Travel Agent or TWA.

The facts are in. Right through the latest reporting period. September 1976, TWA has beaten American and United's on-time performance for the past 16 months between New York and Chicago.

These statistics are shown in CAB records for flights actually flown, and are based on percent of arrivals within 15 minutes of schedule.

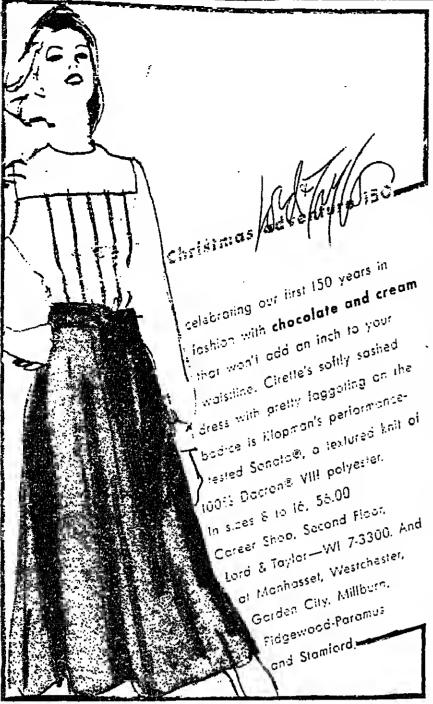

-At TWA, we've worked hard for our on-time record -- and we intend to keep it. But don't take our word for it; take TWA to Chicago and see.

TWA has carry-on luggage compartments on every flight.

No matter which flight you take, you can take your luggage right on board with you because TWA has convenient, full-size carry-on luggage compartments on every plane we fly to Chicago.

So next time you take a business trip to Chicago. call your Travel Agent or Corporate Travel Department and put yourself on TWA. It's the best business flyer's airline in the business.

You no longer have to write a check for these payments. You save postage every time. And you can call TELLERPHONE seven days a week: Monday to Friday 8AM to 8PM, Saturday and Sunday 8AM to 5PM.

You receive a complete and itemized statement every month. We even do the paperwork and send you a monthly statement describing all the individual payments you made.

And for all these advantages, the charge is only 10¢ each time you call, as long as you maintain a balance of $300 in your TELLERPHONE Account. You can make as many payments per call as you wish. And the local call itself counts as one message unit. And there's more! With a TELLERPHONE Account you automatically qualify for a free checking account at The Greater, which you can use to pay other occasional bills that arise.

Thereafter, once you make your deposit, in person or by mail, you can do your banking by phone if you wish. Pay regular bills by TELLERPHONE ... and, when you need to write some checks. use your TELLERPHONE Account to transfer funds into your checking account.

In my humble estimation, this has ordinary checking beat by a mile.

Moneywise, you are way ahead. Assume an individual makes a deposit of $500 on the 1st and 15th of each month in his TELLERPHONE Account. Say he makes five payments totaling $395 on the 5th of each month and four more payments totalin; $230 on the 20th of each month. At the end of one year, said individual would have a very pretty financial picture: namely, a balance of $5,155.64 in his TELLERPHONE Account. He would have earned $158.04 in interest, and paid only $2.40 for 24 calls at 10¢ each. And remember, he would have saved postage, a whopping $14.04.

So, if you are impressed by figures like these, open a Greater TELLERPHONE Account today. You can do it in person at any of our 16 branches, or mail the coupon. And if you have any questions, call our TELLERPHONE number, 212-499-7000.

Prcf. A.E. Dick Howard of the Universiy of Virginia Law School, who is writing a book about the Burger Court, pointed in an interview to several differences in the way the Court functions now, com-pared with the way it functioned in the 1960's.

Different 'Values' and 'Interests'

There has been a change of doctrine, especially in the criminal law, he said, but there are also differences in the "values" and "interests" of the Court, in its relation to the political process and in the way litigants and various interest groups regard the Court as a "final" forum for their disputes.

Some of the new values in the Court's deliberations are well known. States' rights is one, as shown in the Court's decision last June striking down the laws that extended Federal minimum-wage and maximum-hour provisions to state and municipal employees. Law enforcement's ability to do its job is another, as shown by numerous comments in recent decisions about the difficulties faced by the police in making arrests.

Thanks to both circumstance and Pres-idential nrerogative, Mr. Carter will have an immediate opportunity to begin influ-encing, indirectly, the Court when he. "The Durger Court is far removed from the egalitation and activist Warren Court that Mr. Carter's two Democratic predecessors faced in the 1960's. Justice Lewis F. there would have been at teast some leveling off by the Court even if there bad been no changes in its membership. "You have had some slowing up simply because of overloading of the circuit," according to Prof. Gerald Gunther of Stanford University. But a major, perhaps the overriding, reason has been the four Justices appoint-d by Mr. Nixon: Chief Justice Burger, Justice Powell and Justices Harry A. Blackmun and William A. Rehnquist.

At the request of the Puyallup Tribe of Washington state, the Court agreed to decide whether a state court may adjudicate on-the-reservation treaty fishing rights of a tribe in a dispute involving tribal and nontribal fishermen. The Washington Supreme Court decided the matter against the tribe, finding that the state does have jurisdictioo. (Puvallup Triba Inc. v. Dept. Of Game of Washington, No 76-423.) PRISONS

Setting the stage for a major ruling on the rights of prisoners, the Court agreed to review a lower Federal court ruling in a North Carolina case giving an inmates' union certain rights regarding solicitation of new members. Specially, the lower court held that where a state allows inmates to belong to a union, it may not at the same time forbid them to solicit members, via meetings or mail. -

The Court said that the state had to give the same rights to the union that it already gave to such groups as Alcoholics Anonymous to send bulk mail to the inmates soliciting new members, and to hold meetings for the purpose of seeking members. The state appealed. (Jones v. North Carolina Prisoners' Labor Union Inc., No. 75-1874.)

PRIVACY

With no Justice recording a dissent, the Court refused a request by the American Civil Liberties Union to decide whether a Virginia statute probibiting oral-genital contact between husband and wife is unconstitutional. (Lovisi v. Zahradnick, No. 76-184).

be ordered or used in efforts to remedy past racial discrimination, the Court refused to hear an appeal by a white Louisiana man who was first promoted to head coach of a high school but almost immediately reduced back to his old job as assistant coach, so that a black could get the head coach job. The school board, in rescinding the original promotion order, acted on the theory that the promotion of a white, when most head coaches in the district were already whites, would violate 20 existing court-ordered school desegregation plan for the district. The plan had set a three-year goal of obtaining a 50-50 ratio of blacks and whites in various school jobs. (Adcox v. Caddo Parisb School Bd., No. 76-296.) SCHOOLS

The Court declined to review, for what it said was "want of jurisdiction," appeals by Delaware and nine suburban , school district's from the sweeping citysuburban school desegregation plan imposed last spriog by a lower court in the Wilmington school segregation case. Justice Marshall did not participate. (Delaware State Bd. of Ed. v. Evans, No. 76-416; Newark School Dist. v. Evans, No. 76-474; New Castle-Gunning Bedford School Dist. v. Evans, No. 76-475; Mount Pleasant School Dist. v. Evans, No. 76-499; Marshalltonς. McKeao School Dist. v. Evans, No. 76-500; Claymount School Dist. v. Evans, No. 76-501.)

700 Speechless Writers

BV ANÄTOLE BROYARD

SELF-PORTRAIT: BOOK PEOPLE PICTURE THEMSELVES. From the collection of Burt Britton. 271 pages. Illustrated. Random House. $12.50, hardcover; $5.95 paper.

Books of The Times

In the howels of the Strand Bookstore in lower Manhattan, at the deep end of the hasement, a heavy rope stretches across the aisle. It is not clear whether the purpose of this hawser is to keep the public out or to keep Burt Britton in, for if he once emerges, he is capable of pulling down all the shelves and discoursing, more or less simultaneously, on every hook in the place. As manager of the store and keeper of its arcana, Mr. Britton seems to have met, over the years, a good many people concerned with books as they pursue, like the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, volumes that have criminally been allowed to go out of print_

It is Mr. Britton's idiosyncrasy_on such occasions to ask anyone he likes or admires to do an impromptu selfportrait, a visual, not a verbal one. With an absence of paranoia that is truly remarkable, hundreds of them have complied, and you can see the results in "Self-Portrait."

If a writer is interviewed in words, the portrait of himself that emerges is predictably distorted. When he holds the mirror up to his own neture, it is a hit like asking "Mirror, mirror, on the wall, who's the fairest of them all?" Here, the writer is in his element: We see him through his dream censor, as it were. He creates a character, prepares "a face to meet the faces that you meet," substitutes art for the unconscious

But ask him to draw his portrait and perhaps-perhaps-you will draw him out. Unfamiliar with the subterfuges of another form, he may betray him-self, may inscribe on the page the ultimate graffito of his self. Clumsiness is a great discloser and most of these people have forgotten, in their chosen disciplines, how to he clumsy.

Hard to Generalize

What do we find, then. in "Self-Portrait"? It is not easy to say: You may have to see for yourself, One can make very few generalizatioos, such as: The portraits may superficially he characterized as literal or figurative; smiling, impassive, or haggard with consciousness. Some are talented draw-ings and others would not do credit to a 5-year-old. One writer will apologize for his drawing in a few added words and another will append a sententious motto or quotation. Some of the most accomplished writers seem glad for the opportunity to he simple, candid and affectionate. Quite a few contributors have hyperbolical things to say about Mr. Britton, as if they thought that, down here in the cellar, behind the rope, it is safe to admit that they simply cannot help liking someone, even if it is a weakness.

A few individual instances: Bernard Malamud draws Calvin Coolidge's profile and signs his own name. Saul Bellow draws Everyman's profile and signs his came. Raloh Ellison draws himself in a tie and tab collar, inside a frame. Jean Stafford draws a quarter horse she used to ride. William Gass is disheveled, his hair down, to a degree you'll never see in print. Harold Brod-key has hlind eyes, like a Greek statue, as if wrote out of memory. William Goddie is headland his printy either Gaddis is headless, his privacy either inviolable or inaccessible to him. Eudo-ra Welty's portrait is charming and Katherine Anne Porter's startlingly sly and unkempt.

Convoluted shells and mazes are pop-ular, but not as common as stick figures and halloon heads. Only Sandra Hochman, Ingrid Benjis, Kathleen Fra-ser and Tomi Ungerer have dooe explicitly sexy drawings. Some writers decline the challenge and depict them-selves in words. Others must have had their children in tow, for the drawings are hy them. Rosie Blake sees her name, or identity, as her backbone. Robert Lowell offered six almost invisble versions.

Norman Mailer, one of the least abstract persons in the world, represents himself by an abstraction. Robert Penn Warreo wears an expression of reluc-tant pessimism. Janet Flanner, a wonderfully ascerbic observer, chooses a Christmas tree as her surrogate.

Feelings of Domesticity

Some authors fill the whole space, while others crowd in a corner or huddle in the center. Some take two sheets of paper. Typewriters figure rather unimaginatively in a number of portraits. Joyce Carol Oates and Lois Gould are romantic and pretty. Several authors depict their families as well as themselves: among these, Peter Tay-lor's drawing carries the most comfor-table feeling of domesticity.

Flipping through "Self-Portrait," one gets the impression that few of its contributors are particularly quick thinkers in this medium. The metaphors or metonymies are generally obvious. Those who can draw well often seem to do straight portraits; those who can-not, instead of finding witty symbols within the reach of their pencil, have good naturedly scrawled what looks like the first, or secood, thing to come to mind.

The moral? Again, it is hard to say. Writers are easy-going and giving, at least when they are in a bookstore with Burt Brittoo? They are willing to take chaoces, even make fools of themselves, so long as it is in another medium? One could probably feed these 700 portraits into a computer and come out with a composite picture, but that would defeat the whole purpose of the book, which may be, after all, an oheisance to innocence, a holiday from high seriousness or the most highpowered halloween party ever put together.

The Giants' Triangle

Hostility between the Soviet Union and Chioa and their armed confrontation along a 4,500-mile border stimulated both countries to seek better relations with the United States after the Ussuri River clashes in 1969. Speculation about a possible reversal of this trend is natural now that Moscow, since the death of Chairman Mao Tse-tung, has been openly seeking a rapprochement with Peking. The national interest of both countries in avoiding nuclear war has convinced some policy-makers in Washington that Soviet-Chinese raporochement is likely and, in fact, may already be under way.

 Serious American concern would be justified if there were a prospect of an aggressive Soviet-Chinese alliance and reconstitution of a monolithic world Communist bloc as existed prior to the Yugoslav and Chinese breaks with the Soviet Communist Party. But few analysts expect that. What is projected at most is normalization of relations between China and the Soviet Union, something Moscow probably could achieve quickly if it were prepared to defuse the tense horder situation by thinning out and pulling back its half-million troops there. But, so far, the Soviet Union has refused to make such concessions in advance of negotiation-as demanded by China-and a Soviet emissary in Peking has been unable even to get border talks started.

The best policy for the United States at this point is to continue its efforts to improve American relations with both China and Russia. The triangular relationship is likely to continue even in case of a thaw in Sino-Soviet relations. Washington should continue to reject Chinese arguments that the United States must have bao relations with Moscow if it is to improve relations with Peking.

The Soviet Union undoubtedly is more of a potential threat to the United States than is China. But a possible Soviet-Chinese rapprochement cannot be averted by frantic wooing of Peking through such moves as abandoning Taiwan or selling sophisticated conventional arms to China. The first is unlikely to win large or lasting Chinese gratitude. The second could sour Soviet-American relations without significantly reducing Soviet military superiority over China.

An improvement in relations with Moscow that permitted Chinese officials to sit down in the same forum as the Russians might hring China into some disarmament negotiations and ultimately open the way for four-power Chinese-Soviet-American-Japanese talks to stabilize East Asia and, especially, to avoid another conflict on the Korean peninsula. In the meantime, there is no reason to delay efforts at attaining a second Strategic Arms Limitation Treaty (SALT II) with Moscow.

Much as the Soviet Union and China improve relations with each other, their territorial and ideological conflicts ### they would do in smashing homes, in dividing neighborhoods, in ignoring community values. But it is not only in cities that the superhighways have taken their toll.

As they bulldozed their way through forested or agricultural areas as well, the interstates in many cases revealed the engineers' insensitivity to the contours or to the nature of the land through which they passed. The familiar two long strips of concrete, separated either by a minimally-sized median or flat, treeless grass mall reminiscent of a cemetery, have unnecessarily created miles of hideous and lasting open wounds across the countryside.

It still should he possible in many cases to plant trees and shruhoery as safety features, to mask oncoming headlights no less than to relieve the deadly monotony of sterile grass medians. And for those roads still to be built in rural areas, the designers can leave natural growth and rock outcroppings conforming to the contours, as has been done along some of the nation's superhighways but sadly and strangely omitted in so many or the others.

Reviewing the Budget

Perhaps spurred by the Charter Inspiementation hearings, City Council President Paul O'Dy, yer and Majority Leader Thomas J. Cuite have finally moved to establish a new legislative Office of Budget Review, mandated under the Charter reforms enacted last fall.

it is not yet clear whether the city's legislative leaders are prepared seriously to help balance the hudget or whether they are out to break it with another paironage hoondoggle. Initial plans reportedly envision an 50member review staff, headed by a $50,000-a-year director, with a total hudget that could run as nigh as $4.3 million a year.

That is not what the Charter Revision Commission had in mind when it proposed the new orrice, which is urgently needed to help the Council and the Board of Estimate review the hudget responsibly and effectively. The commission had originally suggested a $1 million budget for the review staff, but even that figure ought to be scaled down in response to the fiscal crisis. City Comptroller Harrison J. Colain believes that a staff of 20 is adequate, with a total hudget of about $750,000.

The key question is not size but quality of the staff. The Council already has an authorized staff of 15 assigned to budget matters. But past performance shows clearly that the Council is not getting its money's worth.

The legislative leadership appears to recognize this deficiency. A Council-Board of Estimate screening committee has advertised for a new professional director and is reportedly seeking advice from expert individuals and organizations. Public confidence in their unlimate choice would be enhanced if they would follow the suggestions of Councilmen Henry J. Stern and Robert F. Wagner Jr. to name a screening panel outside of pointies, including academic experts from local universities.

Interstate Highways: The Tasks Ahead

To the Editor: The Federal Aid Highway Act of 1956, which will give us 42,500 miles of interstate freeways, has celebrated its (wentieth anniversary (news story Nov. 14). Since I have driven on almost every interstate in the country-some 130,000 miles altogether-several comments may be useful.

First, hless every (well, almost every) mile: Faster and safer, they have revolutionized our driving and our lives. However, the initial decision to let Interstates plow through cities is incomprehenible, as some highwaymen now admit. With the Federal Government picking up 90 percent of the construction tah, few municipalities could refuse such largesse, so in acts of almost total social (and highway) irresponsibility, and at staggering urban and monetary costs, some 47 cities have been torn asunder. As a inconsequential byproduct, not through traffic on uroan portions is crowded with local commuters and during rush hours even stopped. By definition these roads are interstate. not intrastate, hence must be unourdened of local demands.

And though the system is approximately 90 percent complete, it still possesses many unsafe soots. Immediate steps should be taken to correct them. First, guard rails must be

'Unfair to Keynes' To the Editor:

In your Nov. 21 Week in Review, Paul Lewis comes dangerousiv close to suggesting that Lord Keynes' "whole approach" to unemployment rests on the assumption of wage rigidity. This claim may be fair to the textbook version of Keynesianism, but it is dreadfully unfair to Keynes.

Wage and price rigidity have nothing intrinsically to do with the possibility of Keynesian unemployment; outerwise it would be impossible to explain the existence of the Keynesian revolution, since many economists before Keynes had attributed the persistence of unemployment to "sticky prices." Levnes' contribution was to show that all that is required for quantity ad-usiments in product and labor markets is that firms, in the face of incomplete markets and imperfect information, find it rational to make use of quantity signals-current demands-in planning future output

It was this insight, and not the recognition of "wage rigidity." which set the stage for the escape from the fairy tale of full employment. Unfor-

The Non-Students To the Editor:

I am a high school teacher who was assaulted and is still suffering from the effects of that assault. I can hear the tak-tak's that accompany any article like that of my colleague. Isabel Byron, "Why I Cried Heip!" (Op-Ed Nov. 19). Ms. Evron is a fine teacher, concerned, enthusiastic and involved with her students. I know there are many readers who deplore the conditions under which she. I and many other teachers in New York City are forced to work. But in a larger context the most deplorable situation is the one in which concerned, enthusiastic and involved students are doomed to the mediocrity of an educational system forced to pander to the demands of an indifferent society: one that mandates an education for every youngster until the age of 21. Our students can remain in school until that age. Many are in school only hecause they can receive welfare for dependent children until they are 21 as long as they are on the register of a school. No longer is it considered a privilege to receive an education. There is no demand for responsible behavior made on our students as long as they are receiving that education. There is no standard for the kind of acceptable attitudes that must accompany any successful learning experience. I accept the philosophy that demands the total dedication of teachers and administrators, but I wonder why the same demands are not placed on students. Unfortunately in New York City Ioday the Board of Education does not consider authority a necessary adjunct to installed down all medians where opposing lanes are less than 100 feet apar, and the median preferably planted to reduce headlight glare. Second, guard rails must be put up on the leading edges of all overs of overheed bridges (many are not so protected) and on far more curves and drop-offs. Third, emergency telephooes should be installed every mile (New York's property admired Northway has them every half-mile). Telephones can be of critical help. Fourth, commercial signs, now optional, should be phased out: They are affronting, distracting, hence dangerous.

For the future-and to help redeem our enormous investment-we should ouild a series of bypasses around every city which the Interstate now chews up (and often spits out). A wide sweep would skirt parochial traffic, would markedly ease local air pollution and would let the rest of us get on with our husiness. In addition, for greater safety, especially in rain or snow, "Trucks Orly" segments should be built in densely traveled areas (as in part of the New Jersey Turnpike). A cent more in Federal gasoline tax should take care of the above. G. E. KIDOZR SMITH

While considering the constitutional and fiscal implications of the decision hy the New York Court of Appeals overthrowing the moratorium on New York City notes, we should not overlook the immense service the court has performed in mandating that our officials must treat the Epolish to officials must treat the English language with the respect it deserves. Those officials are now on notice that they may not adjust the meaning of words like "faith" and "credit" and the their views of current fiscal or political expediency. [Editorial Nov 22]

This is no small thing in times when words are wantonly tampered with to define away, now our rights, now our liberties. One is tempted to take heart that we may yet avoid a descent into . the Orwellian abyss-or at least post-EVERETT A. EISENBERG pone it. New York, Nov. 22, 1976

To the Editor: The New York Court of Appeals ruling in the debt moratorium case last week was not that court's finest hour. The court declared in ringing tones that the interests of the city's bondholders are superior to the interests of the city's residents. The court squarely held that, when faced with the choice of maintaining the; basic services essential for its servival

The disclosures of profiteering and callous dispensing of shoddy if not dangerous medical services hy New York's Medicaid mills leave no doubt that legislative controls are urgently needed. State and city health authorities agree that the regulatory provisions proposed hy Assemblyman Alan G. Hevesi should provide a foundation for reform of an intolerably corrupt business that thrives on exploitation of the poor, the sick and the elderly.

Central to these reforms is a system of licensing and periodic review of the medical facilities and full disclosure of their ownership and administration. Any effective law must put a stop to the present unconscionable process by which avaricious entrepreneurs establish the mills first and then enter into profit-sharing agreements with physicians who provide the patients.

We agree, however, with the caution voiced hy Dr. Thomas A. Travers, director of amhulatory care services for the City Health Department, that any such legislation must firmly fix the areas of responsibility in order to prevent the emergence of a hy now all-too-familiar no man's land between city and state regulations that proyides a safe haven for exploiters.

Existing abuses clearly make it necessary, as Mr. Hevesi described the intent of his hill, to "put the mills into the law." Yet that very term ought to put the spotlight on a more fundamental issue. The present delivery of essential health services to the poverty sector in a manner that makes it necessary to provide a legal framework for Medicaid "mills" underscores what is wrong with medicine in urhan slums.

The lack of adequate professional services has opened the field wide to exploiters with and without medical crementials. Nothing short of a more equitable distribution of those professional services is likely to solve the problem that has attracted the fly-by-night operators in the first place.

Double-Tracked Scars

In a letter published on this page today, a correspondent calls attention to a few of the many glaring defects in planning and construction of the Interstate Highway System. It still may not be too late to correct at least some of the system's obvious deficiencies in safety and beauty, and to insure against their replication in the 10 percent of planned superhighways that, presumably, are still to come.

In siting the highway network, the engineers often failed to take humanity into account. In far too many instances these roads were planned to run through the heart of urban areas, irrespective of the human damage

A respected, independent director with a relatively small staff of specialists, possibly reinforced by executives on loan from local financial institutions with the support of foundation and Federal grants, could provide a solid, credible hase for the municipal budget process.

Changing the Guard

In the last week, changes in ownership were announced for three tamous journals in the English-speaking world. These changes were hopeful auguries, for in each instance fresh financial strength was brought to the aid of publications whose existence has been threatened by real or potential deficits.

The London Observer, published every Sunday as one of Britain's "quality" newspapers, has long been admired on both sides of the Atlantic for good writing, incisive commentary and broad coverage of political and cultural events. But the paper has found itself in an increasingly difficult position because of the pressures of inflation and tough competition from its rivals, The Sunday Times and The Sunday Telegraph.

The survival of The Observer and the preservation of its high standards have been due to the enlightened leadership of its publisher, David Astor, and the trust arrangement which was established to guaro the paper's character and independence. Since the Astor family fortune originally derived from the United States, it is fitting that it is an American who has now stepped forward to cope with the paper's financial crisis. Rohert O. Anderson is a highly successful husinessman with wide-ranging interests in the arts, the environment and communications. Like David Astor before him, he recognizes that the ownership of The Ohserver is not only a husiness venture out also a public trust.

Rupert Murdoch, the enterprising Australian publisher who already owns two of London's mass-circulation papers, was until recently a prospective hidder for The Observer. He has instead purchased The New York Post, which is our nation's oldest continuously published daily newspaper. It dates hack to 1801, making it only a decade younger than the venerable Observer. Although The Post is this city's sole afternoon newspaper, most evening papers now encounter stiff competition from television for readers' attention and advertisers' revenue. The entry of Mr. Murdoch, publisher of some highly sensational newspapers here and abroad, at least guarantees that The Post will have fresh resources to wage what is always a rugged struggle.

The Nation with its small circulation and tiny amount of advertising is far removed from the world of mass circulation daily journalism. But this weekly journal of opinion has its own inescapable financial prohlems. Fortunately, Thomas B. Morgan, its new publisher, has the journalistic experience and the access to financial means which should enable him to give this admirable publication renewed vigor.

Ailing in Soviet Prisons To the Editor:

The information that follows has been received from Igor Mel'cuk, the distinguished Russian linguist who was dismissed from his position in appareot retaliation for a letter that he had published in The Times.

In response to expressions of concero over his situation, he requests that efforts be made, instead, to arouse protests concerning two other political prisoners.

One of these is Gahriel G. Superfin, a philologist who is in prison for his, refusal to cooperate with the K.G.B. during the Yakir-Krasin trial. He is in very poor health, and it is feared that he will not leave prison alive. The second is Sergei A. Kovaljov, an eminent hiophysicist who is serving a seven-year sentence, to be followed by three years of exile, in a prison in the far north. He too is reported to be in poor health and in danger of dying in prison. Both prisoners bave attempted hunger strikes in protest over savage treatment in prison, but to no avail.

In these, as in many other cases in the Soviet Union and elsewhere in the world, the initial act of repression and imprisonment is an intolerable injustice. The atrocity will only be compounded if imprisonment becomes judicial murder. NOAM CHOMSKY Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 16, 1976

Feeling Blue...

By Clark E. Whelton A few days after the Presidential election, I was approached in the subway by a couple of men who couldn't find the "D" train. As I steered them on their way, one of the men asked in a deep Southern accent: "How do y'all up North feel abont having a Georgia boy for President?" I mumbled snmething noncommittal which didn't seem to satisfy the second man, whn said: 'Yeah, it must be hard for y'all to see the South back oo top again."

"The Civil War is nver," I riposted wittily.

"Not down South it isn't," the first. man replied, while his friend let out with what might very well have been a rebel yell,

.Feelin' Gray

Following are excerpts from an edi- areas already urbanized and devel-Birmingham News, in Alabama.

The South has never been the favorite section of the country in the minds nf people who formerly were referred to here as Yankees. Irooically, as the people in the South are losing a sense of regiocal chauvinism -along with a fair amount of their accent-the folk above the Mason-Dixon line have a new reason to dislike Southerners.

The Northeast is losing jobs and industry. The Sunbelt is gaining jobs and industry. The Sunbelt includes the South and the Southwest.

So, not long ago congressmen from 16 Northeastern and Midwestern states banded together to fight the trend. They want more tax dollars to be left in their regions and less to gn to the Sunbelt, They supported legislation like the amendment to the Clean Air Act of 1970 which would bave practically ruled out industrialization of torial that appeared recently in The oped. They want legislation, which Jimmy Carter supports, to federalize. welfare-which would force taxpayers in the Sunbelt to pay for the wasteful, fraud-ridden, self-imposed welfare nurdens of places like New York City. What the Northeast wants, in short, is a second Recoostruction.

Words io politics seldom mean what they are supposed to mean. Reconstruction, imposed by the victorious North at the end of the Civil War, was oot meant to rebuild the South. Quite the contrary. Policies were established to keep the South underdeveloped-a reginn which whuld supply the industrial North with cheap raw materials and provide a market for Northern industrial goods, but which would bave to contend with barriers in trying to establish industry of its own.

Uotil fairly receot years, the purchaser in Mobile who bought steel made in Birmingham had to pay freight rates as though that steel had been areas where the air is cleaner than in made in Pittsburgh. One set of freight rates-cheap rates-applied to raw materials sent by rail tn the North, Another set-expensive rates-applied in manufactured goods seot North.

The Pittsburgh Plus barrier to the development of the Snuth was noly one of the many forms of legal discriminatioo applied against this region. Such a policy was hardly enlightened, because it created a surplus of poor people in the South and eventually many of those poor people flooded to the North. Some found jobs, but others settled into welfare client status. Generations have come and gone and the North still is burdened with this legacy.

The generosity of the North, particularly that of New York City, toward the migrant poor has been overwhelming. The level of social spending is higher in the Northeast than anywhere else in the country. But sn are taxes. And policies like New York City's rent controls are forcing property owners to abandon buildiogs; large sections of the city have become wastelands, where human dregs find to secessionist nonsense once and for all. Sherman didn't make many Southern friends as he did the job, and nnw it's obvinus that some of the sore losers bave even taken to hanging around New York City and raising a little hale in the subway system. Just in case those crackers believe that a former Etlauna boy in the Oval Office means npen season on the North, let me set them straight. There's a whnle bunch nf bluebellies up here who stand ready in rally around the flag at a moment's notice. How many of us are there? Well, just listeo up because "wa ali" are about to sereoade you with Henry Clay Wnrk's hit tune of the 1860's, "Marching Through Georgia." Nnrtherners, are you ready? All together nnw!

Between the Acts

By Russell Baker

The two-party system seems at the moment to have turned into a wbatand-a-half party system. The what party, of course, is the old Democratic Party, but calling it by its old name tells us very little about it. The real question is, What is it?

Even its most august members cannot say right oow. This is because it bas just been captured by a group nf independents with no past performance record worth basing a guess on, and the regulars still don't know what the new crowd plans to dn with them.

One thing we can say for sure is that, this not being China, none nf them will be thrown into solitary. Hubert Humphrey and Edward Kennedy, two of the more bumptious representatives of the old regime, may find their names unflatteringly written on the Washington equivalent of Chinese wall posters, which are called newspaper columns, but even they will probably be allowed to keep their horses for the spring plowing.

For the rest, all we can say for certain about the Democrats is that most of them will try to improve their positions and stay out of jail. They have long experience in both activities, having pretty much run things in Wash-ington since 1958, the year the Repub-licans first showed signs of going tha way of the giant leather-winged bat.

For Democrats the future is all anticipation. They haven't known what they are since their nervous breakdown in Chicago during the 1968 coovention. They are looking forward to Dr. Carter telling them. If be is canny, as a few Presidents of political genius have been, he can give the party a brand-new identity in the oext two years. If he isn't, as most Presidents aren't, the Democrats will have to be happy continuing to get elected en masse every two years and quarreling ineffectually about how to deal with the present lackluster situation,

A luckluster situation is a situation in which the Titanic, having hit an iceberg, doesn't sink, but doesn't get unhooked from the iceberg either, with the result that everybody has to get used to being satisfied with staring at the North Atlantic for the next six years. To the Republican halfpartycontinuing to call it a party would be to perpetuate a delusion-even a lackluster situation would look like a reasonable facsimile of Paradise just now.

About all the Republican Party can do well any more is run for the Presidency. For the rest, it has a handful of governors left, controls a few state legislatures and, in Congress, shows signs of disappearing into inconsequence. Since its crippling defeat in the 1958 elections it has shriveled progressively-or conservatively, if you prefer-into a kiddie-size party. It has not controlled the Congress in 22 vears.

With a Republican President, the balfparty at least has a function. It can help uphold vetoes, which is to say it can keep things from being done. A good case can be made fnr occasinnal Government inaction, but on party ever swept to glory by promising, if elected, to do nothing.

Without a Republican President giving them vetoes to uphold, the balfparty is now reduced to the task nf simple preservation and heavy prayer that the cops may soon catch a Georglan at the Watergate. ..

Not all the members are committed even to preservation. Rocald Reagan now talks about a new party structure which might not necessarily retain the "Republican" name. He speaks for the conservatives, and we can suppose that he is talking about a new conservative party.

There are two problems with this idea. The first is that Mr. Reagan, the conservatives' most dynamic figure, will be a bit old to run far President by 1980, while younger conservatives are having a hard time getting elected to anything.

The second is that Dr. Carter is making the sounds of a man threatening to outfit the Democrats with the conservatives' favorite issue-cutting the budget. Can the halfparty be saved by the "moderates," that genteel assortment of losers who followed Nelson Rockefeller until he embraced Barry Goldwater? Nothing is impossible in politics, but this comes close, With Rockefeller gone, the "moderates" have no spirit, no fight, nn ideas and no ieadership. They consist-almost entirely of men who cast no shadow.

Dr. Carter should find it easy work to outfit his new Democratic Party with much of their following. A touch of Eisenhower ambiguity should do the job, and he has already displayed an Eisenhoweresque talent for . persuading natural enemies to clasp hands and join him in a nice warm muddle

How will it all end? It won't, but in the meantime, if we are lucky, we may see the old what-and-a-half-party system give way to two, three or four real parties that might revive American political life. When 47 percent of the voting population casts its ballot for neither party, as happened this month, there have to be a lot of people waiting for something oew to turn up. In spite of what you hear, of course, we are not always lucky.

By the the thought of racial integration rred, the surrounding neighborhad already been marked off as commercial property by real esdevelopers interested in office ngs. With a vanishing student ition, Stevens was lucky to sur-recent years, the enrollment ed as low as 125 studeots and urvival of the school seemed in ion, eveo though its huilding on students from all over the city. In its environmeot, there are banks aod trendy restaurants, office huildings and parking lots. In no sense does it conform to the stereotype of a beleaguered inner-city school.

The students were prepared for the announcement of Any's enrollment. Even before the decision had been made they had completed, as a joint effort, a composition on the theme of "Why We Are Pleased" that Amy Carter might he coming to Stevens.

"Amy will like our clean, neat school," it declared. "She can help us learn what is going on in our country and the world.

"Maybe we could visit her at the White House. She will have a heautiful home with maids and fancy food. We hope she will choose our school for her own.'

The compositioo was posted on one of the hulletin hoards in the classroom of Verona Meeder, Amy's future teacher. Several of the other bulletin boards were covered with pictures of Amy and her family. Mrs. Meeder and the students all wrote directly to Amy to let ber know that she would he welcome. The teacher, a North Carolinian married to a Methodist minister, fold the prospective student: "We have a lot in common being from the South aod, most important of all, Christiao." She also offered Amy a puppy named "Grits," one of a litter of nine her family's spaniel had "on the same oight as your dad's election."

Only Found Out Yesterday

For all the recruitment and discussion, Mrs. Meeder said that oeither she nor the students really were convinced that Amy would he enrolling at Stevens until vesterday's anoouncement. Most of the children had heard oews of the ennouncement oo televisioo aod radio hroadcasts hefore coming to school. When they got there, a TV crew was waiting to record their reactions, Their most animated speculation was not with Amy Carter or her father hut the Secret Service guards who would eccompany her to the fourth grade. "There will he a lot of changes when she comes," said Chere Ellis, a class-mate-elect. "Guards and stuff, They'll be with her wherever she goes." In fact, it is the hope and presumption of the school that the guards will he satisfied to remain outside the classroom. Given the smallness of the school, the security problems it presents would seem to be no different from those that would have been en-countered in a private school.

This morning "guards and stuff" were still figments of imagination. Occe they evaporated, the class—which mixes third and fourth graders—re-turned to its routioe.

The rise in enroliment that accompanied the opeolog of the after-school ceoter has recently made it possible for Stevens to hire new teachers with specialties such as science and music When she visited the school this month Amy's mother, Rosalynn Carter, made a poiot of inquiring about science in-struction, explaining that it was her daughter's special interest.

She was assured that it would be available; io fact, it had just heen added to the curriculum. Jane Harley, a guidance counselor, was careful to explain that this was a result of the school's owo efforts to revive itself and not something that had been suddenly dreamed up for a President's daughter. "I'm glad we started these thiogs hefore we had aoy idea that Amy was coming," she said. "We wouldo't waot people to thick they'd heen set up for

New York City offered to rehire 250 laid-off police officers yesterday, but attached a Hobson's choice to the offer. The former policemen were in-formed that they were eligible for. appointment as Correction Departmeot officers. However, Police Depertment officials said that by accepting jobs as guards io the city's deten-tion prisons, the 250 would apparently waive their rights to reappointment as policemen.

Furthermore, according to the of-ficials, a dismissed policeman who ejects a Correction Department post would also be removed from the "preferred" list for rehiring as a police officer.

"It's Catch-22," said Chief Cornelius J. Behan, the head of persoo-oel for the Police Department. "Whatever choice they make, it seems that they have to forget about ever being police officers again." Chief Behan said the Civil Service the Hear York Times/Don Hogen Charles Soft suit is best seller at Oscar de la Renta.

By BERNADINE MORRIS

I'm tired of seeing women in men's clothes." Oscar de la Renta observed in a quiet moment after his spring show.

It was a presentation marked by an exugerance of color, a rustling of silk and a flamboyance that was generally absent from other highly commended snows.

"It has a vitality all of its own," said Grace Mirabella, editor of Vogue magazine, "There's a sense of enter-tainment, fun and a free charm you don't find anywhere else."

The vitality was expressed in skirts tiered like those of flamenco dancers, waistlines cinched in and marked by ribbon, and occasionally, bailooning sleeves.

That is, of course, for evening, but daytime clothes also reflect a gentler cuality. Typically, a suit nad a white linen jacket, about hipbone length, a linen belt and a four-gore, flaring skirt. 'You could wear it with a blouse. of course." Mr. de la Renta pointed out. He showed it without a shirt, open to mid-chest level. Much more devastating that way.

"The mood of fashion is changing." the designer went on. "For the last iew years, everything has been sportswear oriented. Women wore pants and jackets tailored like men's. We're moving away from that now.

Big Change Next Fall

"The difference is strongest in evening clothes, but by next fall, I think there will be a big change in day clothes," he said.

Like many other designers. Mr. de la Renta has previously emphasized matte jersey and chiffon evening clothes. Now the stress is on taffetas and other crisp silks that have body and hold their shape.

They're used in fuller silhouettes (the designer describes them as clothes with "more volume"), which are kept in control by a belt at the waistline. The result is a turning away from the rectan-gular line that has dominated women's clothes for close to two decades and the approach of a more curving hourglass look.

It is, ipso facto, a feminine shape. "What was most significant in Yves Saint Laurent's collection, to my way of thinking," Mr. de la Renia said, "was that the designer who did trench coats and mannish-tailored suits for women was moving into a thoroughly feminine mond.

Museums Put Art to Work, From Totes to T-Shirts

By NADINE BROZAN

Hieroglyphics and Egyptian funerary objects, along with Mesapotamian motifs, are moving out of the past and into the present as adornments on shirts, pillows, tote bags and dinnerware.

The trend toward adaptations of art on to commonplace objects is the latest development in the museums' lucrative and expanding business, which once was confined to a trade in reproductions and art reprints.

The latest phase, begun about two years ago, has seen adaptations move from whimsical and low-price wares to more serious and expensive products, such as fice china and jewelry, according to Brian Rushton, bead of the Brooklyn Museum's division of publications and marketing services.

"The public has gotten tired of having only reproductions available," Mr. Rushton said; explaining why the museum had recently branched out into the adaptation business. "The feeling that this is overcommercialization, which used the widespread, is shrinking dramatically."

The Whitney Museum of American Art has done a booming business with items that incorporate designs by Alexander Calder, who died recently.

ander Calder, who died recently. The collection-a T-shirt, a tote bag, a gift wrap made of fabric, along with the mnre traditional posicards, note paper and posters-was intended to tie in with the comprehensive "Calder's Universe" exhibition oow at the museum. The artist's creations seem par-

Transposiog Calder into merchandise proved to be a cultural shock for Doris Palca, head of publicatioos and sales for the museum, "Wheo you work for a museum, you know about catalogues and postcards," Mrs. Palca said. "Then suddenly you find you're in soft goods. Some guy asks how many smalls and extra larges do you want, and you start wondering about shrinkage in the washing machine and polyester blends versus cotton."

The plaio white T-shirt embellished with Calder's signature in black, two fanciful acrobats io red and a bird in blue taken from drawings comes in small, medium, large aod extra-large sizes and is $5. The canvas tote bag with the same bird and signature on tangerine or yellow canvas is $10.

tangerine or yellow canvas is $10. The Whitney Museum shop, Madison Avenue at 75th Street, is open Tuesday from 11 A.M. to 10 P.M.; Wednesday through Saturday from 11 A.M. to 6 P.M., and Sunday and holidays from noon to 6 P.M. For information, write to the Whitney Museum Sales Desk, 945 Madison Avenue, New York, N.Y. 10021."

the Brooklyn Museum has delved back thousands of years. For example, its tote bag bears a hieroglyphic inscription from a pair of Egyptian statues of 1400 B.C. The bag, which also carries the name of the museum in English, is made with creamcolor lettering on a cocca background or cocca lettering on a natural background. It sells for $13.50.

A pocketbook-size tote is based on a design from the back of a Japanese fireman's coat of the Edo period (A.D. 1615 to 1867). The bag, with red letters on a natural background or white on navy, is SS.95.

Ancient writings and symbols are used for a variety of vases, bowls, cachepots, ashtrays, cigarette boxes. Among the most bandsome of these is the floral porcelain dinnerware adapted from a Mesopotamian bowl of the 9th century. The set includes a dinner plate at $12, and cup and saucer at $12.50.

The Brnoklyn Museum Gallery Shop. 188 Eastern Parkway, is open Wednesday through Saturday from 10 A.M. to 5 P.M. and Sunday from noon to 5 P.M. For a catalogue (25 cents) or information, write to the shop.

Ancient Egyptian culture is also the source for one of the most charming gifts sold at the Metropolitan Museum of Art's shop: namely William, a sweetfaced hippoptamus who has come to be regarded as an informal logo for the museum.

In the 2,000 years before the birth of Christ, statues of bippopotamuses were often placed in tombs to impart to the deceased control over monsters and help to hunt successfully in the next world. One of these statues, believed to be 4,000 years old. was acquired in 1917 by the Metropolitan Museum.

William now adorns a tote bag of heavy quilted cotton duck for $22.50. The design is turquoise on a natural ground. He bas also been transformed into a stuffed toy or pillow for $22.50. An unstuffed version for sewing and assembling is $12.50. Bradford Kelleber, who is in charge

Bradford Kelleber, whn is in charge of publications and reproductions and whose staff chooses items to be made for the shop, said that adaptations accounted for only 1 to 5 percent of the inventory.

An apron, inspired by a Victorian photograph, is just one appealing choice amoog the adaptations. Made of cotton-polyester and trimmed in lace with a bib bodice and huge sash, it comes in ooe size and is $18.75.

Scarfs and ties carry an interesting array of patterns. Medallioos from Chinese woodblocks of the early 18th century have found their way on to silktwill ties. ($12.501 or scarfs ($25.)

Americana is represented in needlepoint pillow kits. The museum has taken six floral and two animal designs from a carpet-made in the mid-19th century by a Vermont bride and known as the Caswell carpet. The floral patterns, which are to be done in a basketweave stitch, are $22.SO a kit; the kitten and puppy patterns, to be done in a chain stitch, are $9.75 each.

The extraordioary gold pieces in last year's "From the Land of the Scythians" Metropolitan exhibition led to a good selection of jewelry that uses designs originally found on shields, daggers and ornaments. ### Artificial Turf Presents Real Problem in N.F.L.

By WILLIAM N. WALLACE

Rocky Bleier was explaining the robiem when it begins to snow on synthetic turf. The Pittsburgh running back, who did better than anyone else in keeping his balance and his speed in the show at Cincinnati on Sunday, said: "The problem is that Astrotur: can't absorb snow. About The show can't go any-Рго where so it builds up ouick-Football is on top. Then the snow sticks to the bottom of your saces and you have no traction. You have to keep kicking it off."

The synthetic surfaces, like Astroturf and Tartan, have been praised and cursed for various reasons. With regard to adverse weather conditions they are at their best in rain because they do maintain stability, or traction, and of course there is no mud. But in sleet or snow the traction disappears aod they are a definite liability.

Gary Burley, the Bengal defensive end, said: "There was no movement out there, just a lot of standiog around. rubbing shoulders with the guy next to you. There was hardly any blocking. Offensive linemen were just shielding people."

Ken Anderson, the Cincinnati quarteroeck, hao Bleier's problem-globs of snow on the pottom of his shoes, which he changed to no avail Aiming to Win the game at the end with a passing atteck, Anderson had a terrible time trying to step backward to pass and twice feil down.

Bill Ford, owner of the Lions, says he intends to rehire Tommy Hudspeth as the Detroit coach. Hudspeth was appointed as interim coach in October to finish out the season, replacing Rick Forzano.

Because he could not move around behind a weak offensive line, the 36year-old Roman Gabriel is likely to be replaced as the Eagles' quarterback. Gabriel started two games but the coach, Dick Vermeil, has indicated he will go back to Mike Boryla.

Ed Podolak of the Chiefs, who had been injured almost all season, rushed for 127 yards and scored twice against San Diego. The performance provided an offseason goai for Podolak's coach, Paul Wiggins. Podolak, who is 29, has said this will be his last year in pro football and Wiggin hopes to convince him to continue.

Trouble comes in bunches for the Miami Dolphins. They lost a chance to bear Cleveland because Bob Griese, the once impeccable quartrback, made an inexcusable error. Miami had a first down at the Browns' 5-yard line with 25 seconds to play and no timeouts left to stop the clock. On the previous play the officials had stopped the clock to measure for the first down. So Griese then called a running play and Bob Babich tackled Norm Bulaich at the 3. Time ran out and Cleveland won, 17-13. Griese should have rolled out and passed-for a touchdown if possible and certainly for an incompletion to stop the clock.

He explained. "We alerted the offi-cials we would throw the ball to stop the clock if we got the first down while they were measuring," he said. "But when we got the first down by an inch and they had stopped the clock for the measurement, I got a false sense of security. I forgot the clock would start up again after the measure-ment. It all beils down to the fact that I blew it."

His coacii. Don Shuia, did not disagree. "We made a bad call," he said. "I'm sure Bob's upset he did it."

Griese adoed: "In the past we won close games and made the big play. This year, we're just close."

Pat Haden, the rookie who three games ago suddenly found himself promoted to starting quarterback for the Rams, received a compliment from Hank Stram after Los Angeles beat Stram's Saints, 33-14. "Pat Haden is getting confidence with every game," he said. "and should be very tough by

Csonka Surgery Today; Sports Today Notice Strain Source Strain So

Brian Kelley is feeling fine, but the Giants' linebacker wonders how long anyone can stay healthy at the House of Wounded Knees.

Kelley started the season with three other Giants as roommates in a Piermont, N.Y., home in Rockland County. Last week, Jack Gregory was placed on the injured reserve list, out for the seasoo with a torn ligament in his right knee.

Yesterday, Tom Mullen underwent a three-and-a-half-bour operation on his right knee, which had torn cruciate and colateral ligaments.

Today, Larry Csonka will undergo a similar operation on his left knee at the Hospital for Special Surgery in Manhattan.

Mullen and Csooka were injured in Sunday's 28-16 victory over the Seattle Seahawks. Mullen, the starting left tackle and perhaps the steadiest performer all season on a shaky offensive line, was operated on by Dr. John Marshall, the Giants' team physician and the director of sports medicine at the Hospital for Special Surgery.

A Rough Year for Mullen

Csonka, the million-dollar fullback, was admitted to the hospital this merning. He had to wait for results of his arthogram, a test in which dye is in-jected into the knee to give doctors a better X-ray view of what is going on inside. By the time the results came back, Marshall was operating on two other knees and preparing for Mullen's third operation of the year.

"Mullen's doing fine," said Marshall, who performed the operation, which included some grafting of another tendon on the cruciate ligament, with Drs. Joe Fetto, James Ellison and Bruce Reider. "He had a really had knee, very. very serious. It was just hanging in the breeze."

Marshall said Csonka's operation at noon today would be similar, but that the fullback's knee was not so baoly damaged as Mullen's. The occor said Mullen's chances for full recovery were "very, very good with good luck and hard work," although he might not be "100 percent" by next summer camp. Mullen will remain in the hospital for a week to 10 days and will be in a mast for six weeks and in a brace for the following six weeks. Csonka's outlook, Marshall said, was at least as optimistic. "No two knees are exactly the same," the doctor said. Even though the same two ligaments are involved, "it's a question of how they tear," the doctor said. Csonka, ward, did not suffer as much ligament damäge.

Last week. Gregory had argued against undergoing surgery and Marshall agreed that it was not necessary in this case. He said Mullen and Csonkahad sensibly agreed to their operations. But the fullback was not happy. A kneeis important to a running back.

"He was scared to death," Marshall said. "If there were any way he did not have to have the operation, he would have taken that option. He had 10 years in the league, he's as strong as a oull and this has never happened to him before." But the coctor said Csonka accepted his fate in good humor. "He wanted to go first, then he wanted a window bed, and he didn't get either," Marshali said.

Mullen, whose 25th birthday is today, has been plagued by injuries since he became the Giants' No. 2 draft choice in 1974. He suffered a shoulder separation that year and needed a postseason operation. The shoulder oothered him again last year and last January he had another operation. Then, while working with weights to regain strength in the right shoulder, Mulleo ruotured a blood vessel in his biceps and needed still another operation.

He missed most of the preseason. but until now bad been the only regular offensive lineman not to have been sidelined this season.

Coach John McVay said he would be looking for two healthy bodies to add to the roster this week. He doesn't have many.

"We're thinking of looking for anoth-er back." the coach said, Csonka, of course, is out for the last two games at Giants Stadium against the Detroit Lions and St. Louis Cardinals, He will be replaced by Marsh White and Larry Watkins.

But White may be needed at halfback. too. Doug Kotar, the reguler, played the second half Sunday with a pinched nerve in his neck and Gordon Beli, his replacement, suffered a bruised knee.

The other new Giant, McVay said, would be a lineman, "either offensive or defensive, depending on the best player available."

The chances are it will be a defensive ineman, Jim Trimble, the director of pro personnel, said he had "a good one" in mind, With Gregory out, the Giants have only five defensive linemen while they still have eight offensive Enemes.

JOHANNESBURG, Nov. 29 (UP) Harold Solomon retained his South African open tennis championship to a day when he defeated Brian Gottfried 6-2, 6-7, 6-3, 6-4, in a three-hour, all American final. It was a rematch of last year's final.

Solomon earned $20,000 for his victory in the Grand Prix event, while Gottfried collected $10,700.

The stocky, dark-haired Marylander slammed home countless winners with his double-fisted backhand.

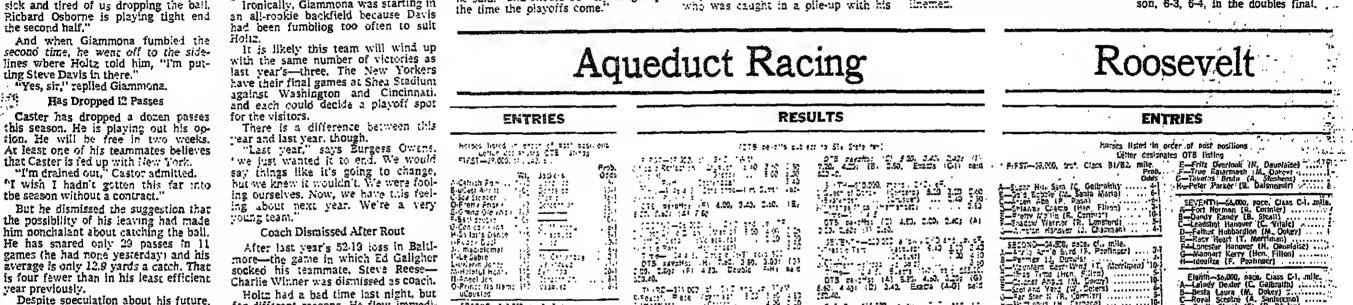

In the ecervating afternoon heat, hefore a capacity, crowd of 8,000, the players were reluctant to follow their serves to the net. When Gottfried did, he usually was passed by his ac-curate-hitting foe.

Despite soeculation about his future. Caster contends he does not want to leave New York.

"If we can reach an agreement, that's fine with me," he said. Caster is considered by many observers as the most imposing deep threat among tight ends in the National Football League. But on the Jets, with Joe Namath's top-heavy salary, true stars are paid less than on some other clubs.

That was the reason John Riggins left and it may be the reason Caster leaves, too. The Jets will have to reevaluate their salary structure after this season if Namath is not returning.

But Caster says it is up to the Jets to meet his demands. That might be just a negotiation attitude, but Caster appears to have a take-it-or-leave-it position.

Confused About His Efforts

He remains confused, though, about his performance this season.

"You never really know how bad it feels to drop passes until it happens to you," he explains. "You can watch other people drop them and talk to them, but when it's you, you don't really understand it. Maybe benching me was for the best."

Giammona carried his guilt on his face. He looked said and he tried to smile as Darrell Austin tousled his hair. "There was only one other time in

Ed Taylor and Phil Wise, starting defensive backs, are out for this week at least. as is Howard Satterwhite, a receiver. Austin's status at right guard is uncer-tain because of his sore neck.

The defensive backfield is down to the minimum of four players and even that number is dependent on the return of Shafer Suggs. If another defensive back is injured, a linebacker, Larry Keller, will play a variation of safety.

Keller was on the defensive line in college, and has only one day's experi-ence as a defensive back. That came last week when the Jets were short of defensive backs for a scrimmage, and put Keller there merely as a body to fill space.

He saw a few minutes of action there yesterday after the injuries. By then the Colts had clinched their second straight playoff spor. Two years ago their record was 2-12.

pursued Jackson with offers described as "a king's ransom." Nor was anybody surprised when he chose instead to go with the Yankees to display his talents on the biggest stage in professional sports.

"I can do it all," Jackson once said in his self-assured style. "There are others who hit more consistently or harder, who run faster, field better or throw better. But there's no one who does as many things as well as I do. I can do it all, and I create excitement in a ball park when I walk on the field."

Assertive, confident, independent, he always spoke his mind even during the championship days in Oakland, when he retlected.

Jackson Signs Yankee Contract For Five Years and $2.9 Million

SPORTS

By MURRAY CHASS

Last Juoe, 24 hours after the Yankees engineered a 10-player trade with the Baltimore Orioles, players from the two teams collided in the lobby of a Chicago hotel.

"Tell the man to save some money, Reggie Jackson, then an unsigned Ori-ole, told a Yankee follower. "Til be there next year."

Not next year but only five months later, Jackson arrived "there" yester-day, and be gave full credit to "the man." George Steinbrenner, for the decision he made.

"It was like trying to hustle a girl in a bar," the flamboyant Jackson said about Steinbrenner's efforts after he signed a five-year contract with the Yankees said to be worth $2.9 million. "Some clubs offered several hundred thousand dollars more, possibly seven figures more, but the reason I'm a Yankee is that George Steinbrenner out-bustled everybody else." 'Big Apple' fnr Jackson

Best in East In Football

By GORDON S. WHITE Jr.

University of Pittsburgh football players and coaches, who are expected to monopolize this year's postseason honors and subsequent dinner engagements, were notified yesterday that they won the Lambert Trophy, which is awarded each year "for outstanding performance by an Eastern major college football team.'

The undefeated and untied Panthers, ranked No. 1 in the nation, concluded their regular season with their 11th victory last Friday by beating Penn State 24-7. Penn State had won the Lambert Trophy for the last five years. Piltsburgh will play Georgia in the Sugar Bowl, Jan. 1, and if the Panthers win that game they will doubtless be named the mythical national champion by virtue of ranking No. I in the final wire service polls.

Johnny Majors, the Pitt head coach, attended the New York Foothall Writers luncheon at the New York University Club where Henry L. Lambert announced the totally expected unanlmous decision by the panel of seven men on the Lambert Trophy selection committee.

Majors Ponders Switching Jobs Majors accepted the announcement graciously and then said he hoped to taken place in the Imperial Ballroom because it was more a coronatioo than an unveiling. First, Neil Walsh, New York City's deputy commissioner of public events, presented Jacksoo with a "big apple," a red lapel pin in the shape of an apple. Then, Thurman Munson, the Yankee team captain, and Roy White, tha team's elder statesman, bestowed on White helped Reggie place the hlue Yankee cap on his Afro-adorned head, it easily could have been a crown being placed on a king's head.

'Made Me Feel at Home'

The Montreal Expos wanted to make Jackson a king in Canada, but theirs was one of those more lucrative offers he turned down to play for the Yan-kees. A member of the Expo hierarchy said yesterday their offer would bave been worth close to $3 million just for the life of the five-year contract and between $5 million and $6 million (in-cluding bonus, annuities and loan) over 20 years. "We were prepared to give him what he wanted," said the official, who requested anonymity. What Jackson wanted, though, was in New York. And if be wasn't convinced of that from the beginning,

Then there are the Meis, whose loyalists feel betrayed. When he was asked about the Mets yesterday, Reggie Jackson was polite. "They gave it their best shot," he said, "but I had no personal contact with Mr. [M. Donald] Grant or Joe McDonald." He acknowledged later, "I've never met Joe McDonald." in my life." When he was reminded that be has had a history of distaste for the Mets, be said carefully. "I won't ever knock anybody" but agreed that "the Mets would be a great place for ma to go. Joe Rudi and Reggie Jackson, or Gary Matthews and Reggie Jackson would make a big difference in that team with the pitchers they have. Give them 21/3 runs a game and they're in every game they play." And finally he confessed that the Mets "never made a serious effort" to sign him.

The Mets contend that they offered "seven figures" for Jackson, but the identity of the seven figures is what's important. The first figure could not be 1, it had to ba at least 2.

"And we were most competitive nn Matthews," says McDonald, the Mets' general manager, of the former San Francisco Giants' outfielder who signed with the Atlanta Braves two weeks ago. "We started bidding at $1 million and even $1.2 million."

But according to Ed Keating, who handled Gary Matthews's negotiations: "I really doo't think the Mets made a sincere effort, their top cifer was $500,000 short of what it had to be."

Reggie's Geography Lesson

And so the Yankees signed Reggie Jackson and Don Gullett, while the Mets didn't bother signing any of the free agents. Ten years ago the Mets passed up Reggie Jackson in the draft for Steve Cbilcott, a catcher who was injured as a minor-leaguer. The reason, it was whispered then, was that Reggie Jackson was black, a reason the Mets denied. The reason they passed him up this time is that he's too expensive. That the Mets can't denv.

"I didn't come to New York to become a big star," Reggie Jackson was saying oow. "I brought my star here."

"But someone said," a newsman suggested, "that you would get lost if you were playing in San Diego or Montreal."

"Fort Knox is in Kentucky," he replied quickly, "but Fort Knox isn't lost. Everybody knows where Fort Knox is."

For the photographers, Reggie Jackson had worn a pinstriped Yankee uniform with "42" on the back. He has worn "9" with the Oakland A's and the Baltimore Orioles but Graig Nettles wore that for the Yankees while leading the American League in homers last season. And when Reggie Jackson put on a Yankee cap for the photographers, his mini-Afro puffed out on each side.

"George Steiobrenner," be was told, "might tell you to cur vour hair."

"If he tells me to get it bald," Reggie Jackson said, "I got to consider it."

Losses on Road Of N.B.A. Clubs Affect the 'Line'

By SAM GOLDAPER

Inflation bas come to the National Basketball Association betting line. The phenomenon of the inability of teams to win on the road has increased point spreads to as high as 13. Of the 202 games played thus far, boma teams have won 75.7 percent.

The most vivid examples are the Portland Trail Blazers, unbeaten in 12 games at home, who are 0-5 on the road, and the Seattle SuperSonics, with a 28-game home winning streak over two seasons, who have lost all eight away games. Of the 22 teams, only the Cleveland Cavaliers are above .500 on the road with a 6-4 won-lost mark.

Jack Joyce, the N.B.A. director of security, who monitors the daily point spreads and keeps records of all the results, reports that the winning road percentage for last season was 33 as compared with 24.3 so far this season. Why are victories on the road scarcer?

The coaches and general managers interviewed offered varied reasons. Some said the officiating favored home teams. Others said the league was more balanced with the influx of four teams from the defunct Americao Basketball Association. A few blamed the excessive travel caused by the new schedul-ing format under which teams are playing one another only four times.

Past Point Spreads Cited

"It's unusual to see I11/2 and I2 point spreads," said Joyce. "In previous years point spreads averaged hetween 31/2 and 71/2 and if you saw 8, it was a lot." A Westchester County hookmaker, who is said to do a weekly husiness of $100,000 in pro hasketball, said: The Milwaukee Bucks are a total disaster, the Atlanta Hawks are always losers on the road and the Washington Bullets, good in previous seasons, are new 2 joke. Teams coming into places like Denver, New Orleans, Cleveland, Portland, Seattle and San Antonio are almost always automatic losers.

Canadiens Widen Lead On Brisk Scoring Pace

while the Islanders' first-place lead was slowly slioping and the Rangers' last-place gap was slowly narrowing, the Montreal Canadiens were making a shamples of the National Hockey League standing. The champions com-

The Islanders lost three of four games and saw their Patrick Division margin fall to 5 points over onrushing Philadelphia; the Boston Bruins dropped one of three in the Adams Division as Buffalo pulled to within 12 noints with two games in hano, and the St. Louis Blues and Chicago Black Hawks continued their musical-chair act in the weak Smythe Division with the Blues gaining a 3point anvantage.

The Canadiens suffered no let up in their attack on the N.H.L.'s goal-scoring records. With 17 goals in three games, they brought their total to 134 in 26 games, an average of 5.15, which projects to 412 goals for a season, 13 over the mark set by Boston in 1970-71.

As if this weren't enough, the Stanley Cup holders also regained the lead in defense, a ranking that had been held by the Islanders the last three weeks. Ken Dryden allowed only two goals in two games, and Bunny Larocque gave up three in one to lower their goalies—and team—to 2.23. The Is-landers went from 2.11 to 2.35.

Individually, Montreal still dominated the scoring race. Guy Lafleur, last year's scoring champion, tallied four goels and three assists to regain first place from Steve Shutt, his teammate. Lafleur has 21 goals and 23 assist for 44 points, while Shutt, maintaining his goal-a-game pace, has 26 goals and 16 assists for 42 points.

Making assists at hetter-than-one-asame were Larry Robinson, a Montreal defenseman, who had 27 in 26 games, and Borje Salming of Toronto, with 23 in 22 games, Robinson had a total of 34 points, fourth on the list behind Marcel Dionne of Los Angeles with 13-23-36, but Salming, also a defenseman, had only two goals.

individual team leaders were as io lows:

A week ago the Rangers were 15 points behind the leaders, but lately, shouts of "J.D.! J.D.!" have been renting the Madison Square Garden air. signifying that defense has returned to the Blue Shirts' style,

"J.D." is John Davidson, the Ranger goaltender, who has allowed only nine goals in his last 19 periods in helping run New York's unbeaten skein to a modest four games.

"We're finally starting to hlend to-gether." said Davidson after the Rang-ers had posted a 4-1 victory over Minnesota Sunday night. "It's a super feeling," he added, admitting the hoos had heen getting to him earlier in the sea-50D.

'When I start losing my confidence, i start going down a lot," he said. "Now I'm trying to stand up more. It's easier to do it when you get more confidence in yourself and more confidence in your teammates."

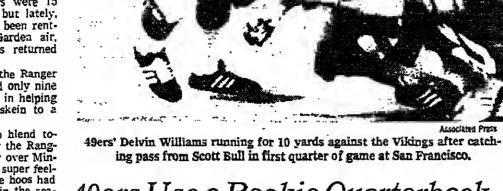

The Islanders have not had to worry much about their goaltending since Glenn Resch with a 2.05 goals-against average is running neck-and-neck for the league leadership with Gerry Des-jardins of Buffalo, who has 2.03. But. after losing, 5-3, to the Flyers Sunday night in Philadelphia, they are more aware of the close pursuit.

"They look like a different team now," Resch said of the Flyers, who regained second olace with the triumph. This game has to give them a hig lift, but with so many games left, it can't be that important." Tonight the Islanders take on

Toronto at Nassau Coliseum, where they will get their first look at Mike Palmateer, a rookie netminder with an 8-3-1 won-lost-tied mark.

49ers Use a Rookie Quarterback, Hoping to Stay in Playoff Race

But Minnesota's lead remained at 13-10 when Cox's extra-point try was blocked. But another pass interference penalty, this one against Minnesota, gave the 49ers a shot from the oe-vard line just 41 seconds before the half ended, and Bull pusheo the ball over himself, so that the 49ers went off at halftime leading 17-13.

Some Hidden Goals

The N.F.L.'s ingenious playoff system provided the motivation. The Vikings had a 9-1-1 won-lost-tied record hefore the game, the best in the conference. If they end the season on Dec. 12 with the hest record in the conference, they will he rewarded with a home game for the opening of the playoffs on Dec.

And if they win that first playoff game, they will have the home advantage for the conference championship on Dec. 26. Those were two excellent reasons for them to do their hest in the 12th game of the season, the 18th if one counts the exhibitions in the, summer

Hoge Still Remains

As for the 49ers, they could still hope. If they heat Minnesota and then San Diego and New Orleans, while the Rams lost their last two games to Atlanta and Detroit, the 49ers would be in the playoffs as Western Division champions.

Furthermore, there was the matter of the hoos. San Francisco got off to a 6-1 start this season, the best in years, and the fans began to think in terms of going to the Super Bowl on Jan. 9.

But when the team lost for the fourth time in a row, to the Rams eight days ago, the fans hooed and hooed. Their targets were the kicker, Steve Mike-Mayer, and the quarterback, Jim Plunkett, a tarnished Bay-area hero.

Against the Rams, whom the 49ers had crushed. 16-0, in an earlier game, the San Francisco passing attack gained a net of only 18 yards.

So the goal against Minnesota was to do well, appease the fans and change some boos to cheers.

Foreman Has Motivation

Also at this time of year, late in the season, individual achievements begin to take shape in terms of statistics, and preseason goals become realis-tic or unattainable. So there were many individual motivations.

Chuck Foreman. the Vikings' half-back, had caught 30 passes. Before the season Fran Tarkenton had said that owner had dinner with Munson to solicit his views on how the players would feel about Reggie, whose outspoken nature and large ego often dominate a clubbouse.

"Go get the big man." Munson told his boss. "He's the only guy in base-ball who can carry a club for a month. And the h el' with what you hear. He hustles every minute on the field."

Steinbrenner, who can be as charming a person as Jackson is dangerous as a hitter, made his first serious move in Jackson's direction a week ago yes-terday when he spent most of the day with Reggie in New York. Breakfast at the Carlyle Hotel, lunch at "21" Club, a stroll around the East Side, a couple of hours at George's apartment.

Then, Steinbrenner flaw to Chicago last Wednesday and met with his quarry for an hour and a half, right in the middle of Reggie's most hectic dey. For the discussions with the other clubs—San Diego, Montreal, Baltimore —Gary Walker, the agent, and Steve Kay, the lawyer, sat in with Jackson and did much of the negotiating But Walker and Kay excused themselves when Steinhrenner arrived.

He probably "manured" in 1971 after a winter of playing in Puerto Rico, where his manager, Frank Rohinsoo, observed: "He's trying to do too muco." Then, when he stooped trying to do too much, he seemed to do everything. He led the A's to their first of five straight Western Division titles in 1971, won the pennant in 1972 by stealing home against the Detroit Tigers, tore a leg muscle on the play and sat out the World Series. City Ballet's Choreographers Put Their Best Foot Forward

Before plunging headlong into the lucrative snowbank of "The Nutcrack-er," the New York City Ballet gave a final look, for the next five weeks at least, at its unequaled repertory. Over the weekend, its two resident choreographers were at their varied best at the State Theater.

It is a good guess that Jerome Rob-bins's "Afternoon of a Faun" will en-dure as a special monument to his genius. It is as perfect an expression of mood and emotional crosscorrents as one could ask for. Edward Villelia and Allegra Kent were the couple wbo found themselves alone in a dance studlo. Mr. Villella's dramatic intensity lent an air of fine danger to the normally unemotional business of exercising at the barre before a mercilessly unwavering mirror. His emotional energy was finely balanced between the formal business of dancing and the less disciplined business of human passion. The characterization was perfect.

Miss Kent showed a similar feeling for the discipline of dancing and the stirrings of romantic interest. When the latter threatened to spill over, she smoothly sought refuge in the classical practice of ballet exercise, converting personal encounter into the formal adagio of professional prowess. To-gether they were two beautiful people in an enchanted moment, which ended in an enchanted moment, which ended only when a kiss broke the spell. On Sunday afternoon, Miss Kent joined Jean-Pierre Bonnefous in George Balanchine's strict, demanding classic "Agon." Their pas de deux showed a full measure of respect for tradition and for the newer 20th-century configurations of formal dancing. The ballet is nearly 20 years old and, like any masterwork, still reveals things about itself at each viewing.

Peter Martins and Kay Mazzo con-tinued their moving portrayal of a couple simply dancing together. They listened to the first portion of Stra-vinsky's 'Duo Concertant' standing by the piano and then, like any young man at a social dance, he invited her to join him. Their simple meeting de-veloped through technical intricacies and ended with his adoring ber on bended knee. It could be any man or woman or read as a metaphor for a man and his muse. Miss Mazzo's shy, almost retiring, qualty had the perfect resonance for the ballet, as did Mr. Martins's gallant pursuit of her. 'Western Symphony' underwent a shortening in the distant past, was re-costumed in the recent past and still retains that air of a prairie play. The

Fortepiano in Comeback for Dudley's Haydn Recital

By DONAL HENAHAN

The revival of interest in old instruments, long since freed of the taint of antiquarianism that made many musi-cians regard it suspiciously, has now brought the fortepiano hack into con-sideration. This is the 18th-century Viennese instrument that served as a link between the harpsichord and the modern piano in the evolutionary scale, although because it has hammers that strike rather than pluck the strings it represents a clean break with the harpsichord tradition and is more truly descended from the clavichord. Essentially a less powerful piano, the forte-piano, or hammerflügel, as the Germans call it, has been late in acquiring a following, possibly because it has been either dismissed as an unsuccessful prototype or cherished merely for its quaintness, like a Model-T that still TINS on a fortepiano at Alice Tully Hall on Sunday night could have given no sup-port to any such misunderstandings. He performed six of the mature hut less familiar sonatas and left this lis-tener persuaded that the fortepiano is an ideal instrument for such music.

There was nothing shrunken or an-dernourished about the sound. The sonorities were robust and yet silvery, and Haydn's harmonic textures had re-markable clarity and opeoness. Mr. Dudley's fortepiano, a replica of the J. A. Stein instrument at the Smith-sonian Institution, could sometimes re-semble a harpsichord in the hass, but the beautifully even scale was topped off with a distinctively crystalline tone in the upper octaves that never thinned out or turned tinny. Mr. Dudley is not a flaming virtuoso

by temperament, but his interpretations remained within a framework

He decorated the written notes lavishly, some of his seemingly improvised cadenzas almost amounting to small pieces in them-selves. While he did oot achieve the dynamic range or dramatic expressive-ness that a modern plano makes pos-sible, he toyed with rhythms sensitively and at least avoided the metronomic regularity that afflicts some. them in one package as his own some-what whimsical Bicentennial gesture. In the new Vienna Urtext Edition, they are Nos. 42 in G. 43 in E-flat, 44 in F, 45 in A, 46 in E and 47 in B minor.

Safely.

Prop Prohlems

But I've hinted that props aren't necessarily safe for actors. Consider the opening night of Pavel Kohout's "Poor Murderer" if you will. The performers were all on their very best behavior; certainly, experienced as they were, they'd worked with their hands before, weren't exactly a bunch of butter-fingered duhs. Yet the poor things bad but to touch a false nose or a bridal crown of seed pearls for the inanimate objects to rear up or drop off in defiance. Kevin McCarthy had the false-nose problem. Playing an actor about to rehearse a scene from "Cyrano," he naturally clapped a papier-maché proboscis rather larger than his own to his face. For about one and onehalf seconds. He'd no sooner spoken a word or two, thereby activating his facial muscles, than the nose gracelessly dislodged itself, victim of an inadequate glue-job or those suddenly animated muscles. Mr. McCarthy tried again, laughing merrily the while. Per-haps the laugh did it this time, but the nose abandoned him again. Another try, another stubborn separation, at which point the author himself rescued our troubled actor. The play suddenly satified gears, "Cyrano" was abandooed and a rebearsal but it tipped anyway, leaving the sublime Miss Schell looking a wee bit tiddly. He tried again, it tipped the other way. She tried. Back to its first position, for which she settled. She settled, that is to say, until, not long after, it slid down over her forehead and threatened her with imminent blindness, at which juncture it simply bad to be more ruthlessly planted in ber hair and never mind the delicacy of its symbolism. After all, she couldn't develop the problem into a fourminute comedy routine, the way hostesses in Laurel and Hardy comedies used to. Not in "Poor Murderer," a more serious venture. Sometimes props get in our eyes, rather than in the actors'. Do you know that I still squirm when a prop baby-and prop babies are about as unreal as anything you'll In the visiting Abbey Theater's pro-duction of "The Plough and the Stars," one of the male hohgoblins who naunted sean & case?'s dublin tenements suddenly found a blanketed baby dumped in his arms. Wishing to be rid of his burden, he placed it on a narrow ledge, no wider than it was, projecting from building's facade then went about his business. Now habies, in my experience, sometimes move a little; sometimes they move a lot; ofteo they squirm, as I was already doing. For if that infant had squirmed so much as one half-inch. would have toppled to the pavement and cracked its little skull. What matter that I know the infant to be nothing more than a bundle of wet-wash or a sawdust-

Swinnerton believes that his own best novel is "Death of a High-brow," published in 1961. Given the chance, he also wanted to correct the rumor that whenever he completed a book. he ate a hot plum pudding to celebrate. Although the "New Grub Street" or George Gissing's 1890's literary world is different today, the strug-gle for survival still goes on for the serious novelist in England, Swinnerton's readers on both sides of the Atlantic are limited but de-voted. There have been some paperback editions of his work, but be does not attain film or television sales, living only off his books. It's still a struggle,

During one negotiation, he recalled, Stewart Richardson, Doubleday's editor in chief, informed him of a possible paperback reprint. Is the fish on the hook yet? Swinnerton inquired. At Marine Midland, we don't want anything to come between you and the money you need. So we've made a commitment to handle the necessary credit needs of every one of our qualified customers. No matter what shape the money market is in.

In fact, we can point to many times when we've continued taking care of our customers' needs when other banks have stopped.

There's a reason why we can back up this commitment. Marine Midland is a major international bank with $9 billion in deposits. Over $541 million in capital and $80 million in reserves. More than 300 branches all over New York State. And offices in 22 countries all over the world.

We want to free you from the inconsistencies of the money market, but don't wait for things to dry up before calling us. The right time to establish a relationship with Marine Midland is right now.

So if your bank ever uses tight money as an excuse for turning you down. tell it to the Marine.

PHILADELPHIA PLAN IS BACKED

3 Other Exchanges Have Similar Applications Pending—Impact on Markets Could Be Substantial

By ROBERT D. HERSHEY Jr. Special to The New York Time

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29-The Securities and Exchange Commission approved today a proposal by the Philadelphia Stock Exchange that would permit spe-cialists there to trade io listed options on the securities in which they deal.

The decision is significant in that three other exchanges have similar applications pending and because it represents a for-mal recognition by the S.E.C. that the potential for abuse is outweighed by procompetitive factors.

Moreover, it represents further integration into the securities mainstream of op-tions contracts, which for more than 40 years have been considered almost totally speculative vehicle readily subject to market manipulation.

Today's decision will oot have easily visible effects on ordinary investors, but the impact on the markets could be subatantial as specialists begin to hedge positions, thereby reducing price volatility. The specialists will not be permitted to make markets in options, nor do any of the proposals of other exchanges yet conemplate this.

Authorization Given Floor Members

In a companion decision, the commis-sion authorized floor members on the Philadel exchange-formerly the PBW Exchange-to trade securities for which they also have option positions.

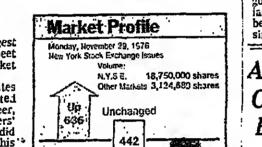

Only call options to buy securities are now traded on American securities exchanges. The S.E.C. bas said it expects to make a decision on whether to allow puts, or optioos to sell, early next year. The S.E.C, tipped its hand on dual trading m September when it advised the Na-tional Association of Securities Dealers that, "in an environment of vicorous competitive marker-making." it would be appropriate to permit dealers to make mar-kets in both the options and the securities behind them. The N.A.S.D. had sought assurances that the commission would not object to a plan it was developing, more ambitious than the one approved today in that it embraced market-making, for its membership dealing In the over-the-counter Despite Lag in Sale of '77 Models market.

Economic analysts here say the declines could be temporary yearend fluctuations or they could presage the arrival in South Korea of the economic luli that hit the United States last summer and crept across the Pacific to Japan in more recent months. There, the Government has adopted a sevenpoint stimulation program to spur the slowed ausiness recovery rate that had depended so much on exports.

South Korea, too, relies heavily on shipments overseas. When Government officials drew up their 1976 plans, they conservatively iorecast an 8 percent growth rate with $6 billion in exports. This was later revised to around 13 percent with $7.5 billion in exports. Last year's gross national product was $1S.7 billion.

The global cffects of the 1973 oil price rise and the yearlong recession that followed here have prompted vigorous steps to broaden South Korean exports beyond the simple textiles and wigs of earlier days. With strong ANYANG, South Korea-Two years ago, Kim Ki Chang's oew business was floundering. He was trying to sell topaz jewelry to women here, in a land where the average family income totaled only S481 a year. Today, Mr. Kim's business is flourishing. He is now selling cheap costume iewelry to the affluent women of the United States-and Canada and Australia and West Germaoy and France and Britain and Japan and the Mideast. "And we're starting to sell now in Africa." he says.

His determination and ousiness success mirrors that of his nation's booming economy, with its growth in its gross national product of more than 11 percent, its rapidly developing heavy industries and its mushrooming exports. This leads to incongruous sights like bands of goats being herded past new skyscrapers.

Turn Into Gloomy Realities

But Mr. Kim's success, like Sonth Korea's, is a precarious one, tightly bound to political and ecocomic factors far from the windswept slopes of this rocky peniosula. And if the succen drop in a few key economic indicators continues, Mr. Kim's glowing forecasts for 1977 will fast turn ioto gloomy realities Figures for October show that industrial production, shipments and export letters of credit all fell after months of growth. Letters of credit, the crucial indicators of export business two and three months later, totaled $665 million, a monthly decline of 2.6 percent. "Right now," said Philip D. Sherman, a Citibank vice president and head of the Feleign Bankers Association in

Market Place University Patent's Stock Reaction

By ROBERT METZ

When a company announces "a new energy source using available materials not used before to produce energy, there is likely to be a stock market reactioo.

That is precisely what happened when University Patents, small as corporations go, announced io mid-November that it had signed e contract to market such a technology on an exclusive basis.

University shares were trading in the mid-20's in the over-the-counter market when the announcement came-with no furthe; details pending patent appli-cation. They reached 29 bio, 291/2 asked that interest rates now were; on Friday on a neavy turnover of 22,300 shares. The stock closed yesterday at 28% bid, 28% asked.

The private concern was formed in 1964 as part of the University of Illinois, handling patentable items resulting from the university's research efforts. It later became a public company out continued to represent the university in the same capacity as before and began seeking similar arrangements with other universities. It dow represents about half a dozen of them.

Although University Patents has succeeded in marketing several of its pat-ented processes and devices to major corporations, it loses money on patents. as a group. The company does out pro-vide a breakdown of royalties earned on individual patents.

A spokesman for University Patents said that the company had received SI million in advance royalties from 1.B.M. for a device that substitutes for cathode tube display equipment. While I.B.M. uses the device, terminally a "plasma display matrix," in 11 of its products, it has used only $200,000 of the $1 million in prepaid royalties to date.

University Patents has licensed both Beatrice Foods and Bristol Myers to produce and market its soy product, a liquid food sometimes called soy milk.

The University Patents spokesman said that the Roosevelt bailroom was chosen in reflection of expressions of interest in the last few months from

A spokesman for Beatrice foods said that the company was impressed with the soy product but added that none of the company's autonomous profit centers had asked to market it, Beatrice, therefore, has no present plans to introduce and market the product in the foreseeable futue.

This is typical of the business of iaunching new products, as University Patents pointed out in its annual report. The report ooted that it is often years before a patented product produces profits if ever.

But in the meantime, Regal Rugs Inc., a wholly owned subsidiary, has put University Patents in the black. In the riscai vear endeo July 31, 1976, Regal earned $607,000 on revenues of $8.65 million. Patent revenues, on the other hand, totaled $355,000, producing a S307,000 loss. Overall operating income was thus $300,000, or 13 cents a share, up from 3 cents a share in the prior fiscal year.

West worries captious investors is that, selling in the high 20's, University Patents stock carries a price-earnings ratio of 50. The company retained earnings account shows a deficit of $1.2 million.

University Patents is headed by L. William Miles, who formely was direc-tor of commercial development for LB.M.

Asked about the mysterious energy process, the University Patents spokes-man said thet he did oot consider any particular technology owned by the company to be any more exciting than any other the company was developing.

As for the movement to the company's shares, he said that he was reutral-neither happy nor unhappy with the market. One brokerage letter noted that relatively few people had attended University Patent's annual meeting last year in Stamford, Conn. The report added that this year's meeting-which is to be beld next Tuesday at 2 P.M.-would be at the Roosevelt ballroom, which is capable of holding

$2 Million a Year in Projections

e Wharton School model, menaged awreoce R. Klein, a close adviser resident-elect Jimmy Carter, sells projections for $2 million a year. a day, says Gary Fromm of the Nail Bureau of Ecocomic Research in hington, one may be able to flash on a television screen in the White House data that will show just where the economy is and then tell the Chief Executive exectly how to achieve the goals he wants. "Perhaps we'll see it oy 1984." be says.

But there is a danger, too, as noted by one of the leading econometricians of France, Prof. Raymond Courbis of the University of Paris. For every set of data, one can find a model, he says. But for every mcdel one also can find an appropriate set of data, he adds.

How the Models Work

How do the models work? First according to Professor Klein of the Uni-versity of Pennsylvania's Wharton School, one lays out the oetwork of what the model is supposed to cover-School an entire economy, a region, an industrial sector. Then ooe prepares a data bank aod determines the coefficieots of technology, raw materials, prices, and wages that fit the model to the real world. Protessor Klein, who has been here for the last week not only to attend the econometricians' seminar but also to take some soundiogs on the Euro-pean economy for Mr. Carter's transition team, is the director of one of the most amhitious of the models, which is known as Project Link.

This shows the interreaction of the economies of the 13 major industrial powers. projecting patterns of trade and growth, and feeding back the information to governments and other cus-tomers including half a dozen Federal agencies in Washingtoo.

It's possible to get more information about natioos than regions in the Unit-ed States, says Prof. Harold Shapiro of the University of Michigan, who is building some regional models but finds such obstacles as lack of data on intraregional trade flows, regional profits and investments of corporations.

Yet corporations are among the biggest clients of the model makers. Some of the larger enterprises, such as the Interoational Business Machines Corporation, have constructed their owo models.

U.S. a Major Client

While it also is a major client, the Federal Government uses two key models in forecasting the economic climate, says Albert Hirsch of the Commerce Department. One is managed by the Federal Reserve Board and assists the governors in shaping monetary policy. The other is run by the Bureau of Economic Analysis, a subdivision of the Commerce Department.

On an Import Levy Imposed by Nixon

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29 (AP)-The Supreme Court refused to decide today whether President Richard M. Nixon had the authority in 1971 to impose a temporary 10 percent surcharge on imports to help curtail a national economic crisis.

The Alcan Sales division of the Alcan Aluminium Corporation, which imports aluminum from Canada, filed suit in the Customs Court challeoging the levy. That court ruled in favor of the Government, and the ruling was upheld by the Court of Customs and Patent Appeals. The Supreme Court turned down the appeal that Mr. Nixon had no such authority and that some $500 million in surcharges was wrongfully collected. He lifted the surcharge on Dec. 21, 1971.

Mr. Nixon imposed the surcharge most imports in an order Aug. 15, 1971, after declaring that a "oational emergen-cy" existed. "There has been a prolooged decline in the international monetary re-serves of the United States," the President said in imposing the additional import tax.

e is no reason to believe that vill be downward revision in merely] because tha replacement ta will imply lower earnings," of. William H. Beaver of Stan-iversity. Professor Beaver made nt in a paper prepared for an ing symposium at Duke Univerursday and Friday on the finanformation needed for security view is bolstered by statistical showing—for the economy as —a much higher correlation bestock market prices and corpo-ofits adjusted for inflation than adjusted corporate profits.

. . erous companies and accounting oppose the S.E.C.'s raplacementiles as imprecise, subjective, un-in meaning and lacking in uni-. The companies are especially ned, however, by the requireto disclose what depreciation s would have been if based on placement cost of plant and ient, rather than on its historical, ouired The hypothetical depreciation figure would almost certainly be much higher than a company's actual depreciation charges. Though tha S.E.C. neither re-quires nor encourages companies in oisclose an inflation-adjusted net income —in fact, the agency has warned egeinst "simplistic" use of the new data -- companies fear that investors will simply subtract the additional cepreciation from net income and conclude that reported earnings are exaggerated Last summer the S.E.C. rejected an industry request that this year's initial round of replacement cust data be kept recret while the ageocy's staff studied whether the figures actually served a useful purpose. Currently before that S.E.C. is a request to permit the enmpa-nies in an industry in withhold replacement cost data for simultaneous release after conventional results for 1976 have been annouoced. Soma corporate officera contend the simultaneous release would prevent an adverse stock market reaction from falling unfairly on the first companies to report 1976 results. Others fear the procedure would call uodue attention to the replacement cost disclosures. ٠ . .

The S.E.C. staff remains unpersuaded that replacement-cost data would set off widespread reductions in stock market prices. There may be some realignments," a staff member said, "but it's hard for me to believe that sophisticated investors aren't already aware that U. S. Steel has a lot of tired equipment out there."

Professor Beaver of Staniord also contended it would be naive to believe "the market has been fooled by the 'illusory' profits reported under a historical cost system." In his view. stock nrices reflect a broad range of informa-tion, rather than "myopic reliance on reported accounting numbers." He stressed the importance of information obtained directly from companies by sacurities analysts and put into circula-tion throughout investment circles.

From that perspective, Professor Beaver said, the impact of replacementcost disclosures would depend more on whether the data confirmed or contredicted the market's expectations than on the disclosures themselves. And he say, no reason to conclude that market expectations have been uniformly pessimistic or optimistic.

Another advocate of replacement-cost disclosures is William S. Easman Jr. of the securities firm of Faulkner, Financial Analysis Journal, cover responses from 204 companies and include 767 audit committee members in Dawkins & Sullivan and founder of an total. More than half of tha companies had three-member audit committees. investment service, "Inflation Account-

Professors Fried end Schift sugfor replacement costs and stock market gest that retired or practicing certified movements. He also contends that stock prices should not be depressed merely because adjusted profits are lower than conventional figures. At present, his service offers its institutional subscribers estimated replacement cost data for 1975 for the companies making up the Dow Jones industrial average. That report, developed by two consultaots, Prof. Roman L. Weil and Angela Falkenstein, also shows how to make and interpret similar estimates for other companies.

Accountants Lacking

on Audit Committees

The audit committees of the nation's largest companies tend to be made up of bankers, investment bankers and industrialists. Members with accounting expertise are conspicuous by their absence.

Those are among the findings of a Tal sur 'y of the Fortune 500 corporations by two business school pro-iessors, Dov Fried and Allen Schiff. The results reported in the current public accountants would make ideal committee members-assuming they had no ite to the company. adependent auditors-but they were disappointed to find only rare instances of the appnintment of recountants.

Connecticut General's performance in group dental insurance ranks first in recent independent poll* of dentists

Recently, a professional association surveyed dentists in four Midwestern states. Among other things, they asked them to evaluate the general performance of a number of insurance carriers they dealt with on a giant industry dental insurance program. Over 800<sup>m</sup> dentists replied to the questionnaire. And one company received a higher percentage of "good" marks than any other.

Eighty-three percent of the dentists who rated Connecticut General felt our performance was good. As you can see from the chart, this is head and shoulders above our competitors. On the other hand, only 1.1 percent of them found our general performance to be poor.

Each carrier in this giant dental insurance program provides essentially the same benefits. Where we have the edge is that our service is "usually prompt, courteous and

We think most companies want a dental program without grief and hassle for the employer and the patient. Good service is as important to the patient and employer as it is to the dentist.

But don't think we got high marks because we gave away the store. Even though our emphasis is on service, our financial experience has been very good. Because we're out to put every claim dollar to maximum use. We want the employee to have the proper care at the proper cost.

So, if you're considering group dental insurance, you definitely owe it to yourself to call Connecticut General.

In fact, come to think of it, even if you're not in the market for dental insurance, maybe you should check us out.

Pioneer in the field.

We were one of the first companies to offer group dental insurance. We started over ten years ago. And because we've been at it so long, we've had time to get the bugs out of our system. As well as find the best ways to get good dental care at a fair price.

We've even set up a network of regional claim offices around the country. And they handle dental claims and only dental claims.

Consultants are professionals.

Each office has a practicing dentist to act as a dental consultant. He's there as a liaison between the claim office and the dentist filing the claim. He can help avoid a lot of misunderstandings.

But maybe one of the biggest things our claim offices do for you is pretreatment review. With our system, the dentist sends in a description of the work to be done. The claim office reviews it and tells him exactly what's covered. So the patient and the dentist know where they stand going in.

Then there's our emphasis on preventive care. Getting the problem before it becomes a big – and costly – one.

All in all, our aim is to give you a plan that satisfies the employer, the employee and dentist, and then do our best to keep it that way

If you want to know more about Connecticut General's group dental insurance program, mail this coupon, or call us toll-free 'at 800-243-8417.

Department Denies That It Seeks to Restrict the Market to a Favored Manufacturer

STATE IS CRITICIZED

A new state law legalizing alowspeed motorcycles and motor-bicycles for the first time goes into effect lomorrow with the State Department of Motor Vehicles already trying to put the brakes on the program.

The Department's actiona have provoked industry charges that it is seeking to restrict the market to a favored manufacturer — charges state officials denv.

The officials acknowledge, however, the issuance of a misleading press release that served to compound the controversy and confusion by mixing up the law and an admistrative opinion by Commissioner. James P. Melton.

"By these actions the department has captured unchallenged possession of the award for administrative abuse of 1976." charged Leonard A. Fink, a lawyer for one of the motor-bicycle manufacturers, Stevt-Daimler Puch of America Ioc.

"I'D LIKE A STOCKBROKER TO LOOK AFTER ME AS IF MY WHOLE FUTURE WERE AT STAKE. BECAUSE IT IS."

Lawrence Appel, Director of Marketing, Lanvin-Charles of the Ritz Inc.

We know that people like Lawrence Appel work hard to earn their money. And they want a stockbroker who will work just as hard looking after it.

At Thomson & McKinnon we'll treat your investments as if they were the most important in the world-because we know, that to you, they are.

That's why before our Account Executives invest your money for you, they'll invest their time in you. To find out what your exact financial needs are right now, and what your financial goals are for the future.

And not only will they give you their time, they'll give you their best. Because many of our Account Executives are not just stockbrokers, they're owners, too. You see, with 85 offices here and in Europe, we're one of the largest-employee owned brokerage houses in the business.

Call us at (212) 482-6410. Let us work for your future. And your retirement. We'll introduce you to a stockbroker who will take your investments as seriously as you do. After all, his future is at stake, too.

A brokerage house you can bank on. A member of all principal exchanges. Securities held in customer accounts are protected up to $300,000. 1 New York Plaza, New York, New York 10004. (212) 482 6410.

ing significantly, the higher prices for sheet steel will not hold. That's what happened late, this summer when the leading steel companies tried to put through a smaller price increase on the same products with a longer lead time -45 days-before they were to be-come effective. Competitive forces caused a unanimous rollback much before the Oct. 1 effective date when some big customers of the steel compa-nies protested, and some of the ateel companies offered to continue the old prices.

The external circumstances might have been different theo. It was only four months after a price increase on the same products, and there was uncertainty over the possibility of a strike in the auto industry in mid-September. Reluctantly, steel executives withdrew that price change, but continued to protest the industry's need for higher prices to improve profitability and fa-cilitate its huge investment requirements.

At the time, several steel men said higher prices were inevitable soon and that, when they were instituted, there would not be a lead time as loog as 45 days.

Now, the auto industry's labor negotiatioos have been settled, their inventories of ateel are said to be back down to more normal levels, and they are gearing up for what is hoped will be a good spring selling season after a temporary dip in recent weeks.

.

Support for the view that the sheet sector of the steel business promises to strengthen came in a recent survey by Iron Age magazine, a steel trade publication. It predicted that the indus-try's overall shipmeots would rise from 7 million tons in December to 8 million tons in January, with the increase caused largely by bigher demand from the auto companies.

Although corporate profits this year have shown improvement on a broad basis, the steel industry did not participate in the upturn. According to a Citibank compilation, the overall earnings of 958 American manufacturers were

The company indicated that the new price for body stock would be 58.8 cents a pound, which would amount to an increase of 11.2 percent. The rise of 3.5 cents a pound for general purpose stock, which is now quoted in a range of 50 to 60 cents a pound, would amount to an increase of 5.8 to 7 percent, while the 1.5 percent rise in coated can stock, which is priced at 55 to 65 cents a pound, would result in an increase range of 2.3 to 2.7 percent.

Alcoa said that the last time these orices were raised was in December, 1974. It traced yesterday's action to "higher costs." but did not elaborate. A spokesman for the Council on Wage

Outlook for '77: Another Winner

By PHILIP H. DOUGHERTY

The recovery may oot know where it's at, but the advertising business, en-joying a record year, expects 1977 to be another winner.

That message came across loud and clear from agency people and media representatives yesterday at the fourth annual conference on "the outlook for the media" sponsored by Paine, Web-ber, Jackson & Gurtis, the brokerage firm, at the McGraw-Hill auditorium.

Carl Spielvogel, vice chairman of the loterpuolic Group of Companies, said that among agency executives he has spoken to all expect next year to he "a strong year."

He had already said that he expected the large agencies to gain dispropor-tionately because multinational clients are looking for full service as pressures mount "to get greater efficiencies oot of marketing dollars."

And, because of the high cost of tele-vision, they are "spending a lot of time and moosy : examining alternative media."

One of the factors that will lead to a healthy 1977, he said, is that corporate profits this year are good, a condi-tion that leads client executives to ap-prove larger ad hudgets. They also know, he said, "that advertisiog moves inventory" and such marketing support is oecessary as personal selling contin-ues to fade into history.

As to the growth possibilities for the big ageoeies such as bis own, Mr. Spiel-vogel cited such areas as Government accounts (the military, Postal Service, Amtrak); direct response, corporate and financial services generally.

He was preceded by Robert J. Coen, vice president and advertising forecast-er of McCann-Erickson, an Interpublic company. For the third time this year Mr. Coen revised his 1976 advertising spending prediction upward. This time be called for a 17.3 percent growth over last year to $33.1 billion. His June forecast was 14.6 percent and Octo-ber's was 16.7. Things just keep getting better and better.

And yesterday he got more definite about next year. Last month he saw increases of 8 to 14 percent. Now be has refined that to 10.6 percent to $36.61 billion. The only medium whose growth he finds "sluggisb" is direct

"There is a lot of uncertainty," he concluded, "but on balance 1977 is going to be a very good year for advertising

Dick Martwick of the Newspaper Ad-vertising Bureau reported that 1976 has been the best year for his favorite medium sioce 1948 and that for the first nine months ad revenues had in-creased 22 percent. The fourth quarter increase can't he expected to be as good, be said, since the same period last year was so strong. Another growth prediction came from Harvey Spiegel of the Television Bu-reau of Advertising, who also said that be thought that 1977 network priciog would only increase about 10 percent and spot about 13 percent. His other good news was that he didn't see any great demand for adding an additional minute of commercial to each prime hour nor did he see each prime-time hour, nor did he see any rush to splitting the standard 30-secood spot into smaller units.

Italian-Americans Get a 2d Magazine

Last month I-AM, the first na-tional magazioe for Italian-Americans, made its debut. Now the charter issue of Italian-American Identity, with a Janu-ary cover date, is in the mails. This second entry into this particular ethnic market is be-ing published by Identity Enterprises for the Italian-American at 420 Madison Aveoue. Raffaele Donato, president and editor, said that his target au-dieoce was third-generation was third-generation Italian-Americans, His first press run was 100,000. There are 46,000 subscribers attracted by direct mail, lists for which were mainly distilled from subscription lists of other magazines.

Advertising rates are $1,300 for a black and white page and $1,850 for four-color. The intent of the publication, Mr. Dooato said, is to bring out the best of the Italian-American experience in this country and to attract the best Italian-American writers, rent issue of Checkout, a oewsletter published by Marsteller Inc.

It suggests that agencies are using the maxim, "If you have nothing im-portant to say, get someone important to say it."

Checkout does agree that a movie or sports star may draw attention to a 30-second spot but asks, "Is the attentioo going to the personality or the selling message?"

"To he hlunt," it notes, "celebrity commercials seem to have become a pat formula for some advertisers and ageocies. Working on a new campaign, their first instinct is to reach for talent rosters. They develop lists of potential presecters before they develop strategies. The big decision turns on the merits of this or that personality."

Magazine Ad Revenues Up

October was another winner for the magazine iodustry. Advertising reve-nues increase 35 perceot over October, 1975, while advertising pages increased

22. percent. The totals were $182.4 million and 9,859 pages, the Publishers Information Bureau reports.

Everyman's Bloody Mary

The L. Rose division of Cadhury Schweppes U.S.A., which already sells lime juice and greoadine, is attempting to extend its sphere of influence. Its new entry is Rose's Bloody Mary Mixer in 24-ounce bottles that is going on sale on the West Coast. Ted Bates & Comnany is the ageocy.

Since there are those who like their bloodies very spicy and others who prefer them not so spicy, Rose has formu-lated a product "that caters to the broadest taste range, giving it universal appeal."

Just tell this machine how much you want at retirement. In seconds, it'll tell you how much to save. (It may be less than you think.)

Almost every bank in the metropolitan area is now offering Individual Retirement Accounts and Keogh Plans. But The Manhattan

Savings Bank owns the remarkable little machine on the right. Thanks to this machine, we can answer questions about LR.A. and Keogh accounts in a matter of seconds that some banks might take days to figure out.

A CA1

For example, tell us how much you want at retirement. and we'll tell you to the penny how much you'll have to save each month. Or, tell us how much you can save each month, and we'll tell you exactly how much you'll have at retirement. Or, tell us how much you want to withdraw each quarter after retirement, and we'll project for you how long your nest egg will last. -

(Because this machine factors in the interest your money will earn through years of daily compounding, you may be surprised by how little you actually have to deposit to make yourself a bundle.)

But even more importantly, this machine makes it possible for our retirement specialists to sit down with you and study your particular situation in great depth. And design a retirement plan tailor-made to fit your individual needs. We can't promise you'll end up with a million bucks. But we can promise you'll end up with a sensible, well-designed retirement plan.

And that can make you feel like a million-right now.

Issue and Debate

Will Carter Victory Bring Help for Housing Construction sity specialist in urban policy, argues in

By JOSEPH P. FRIED

Jimmy Carter's victory in the Presidential election appears to promise a sharp increase in Government help for housing construction. Mr. Carter has indicated that he will seek to increase Federal efforts to pro-mote new housing for poor and middleincome families, not only to meet their housing needs but also to provide jobs in the depressed construction industry. Numerous local officials, civic and antipoverty leaders, builders and labor spokesmen are certain to press him to do this swiftly and on a large scale. They hold that the Nixon and Ford Administrations were remiss in housing and that there is much catching up to do.

But housing and urban-affairs specialists, in and out of Government, argue that a sharp, swift increase in federally aided housing construction could be destructive-to the economy generally and to the troubled cities that the increase would be intended to help.

They say that there are more pre-ferred ways to deal with the problems of substandard housing and excessive reot hurdens experienced by millions of Americans.

The Background

Since the Depression of the 1930's, the Federal Government has enacted a wide array of housing and renewal programs in an effort to provide improyed housing for urban and rural slum-dwellers. These have included public housing built by local authori-ties and subsidy programs to help pri-vate builders lower their costs.

Altogether these programs have pro-duced three million apartments and single-family houses for poor and moderate-income families-a seeming-ly substantial amount, yet far less than what is needed to achieve the official goal of a "decent home and a suitable liviog environment for every American family." In 1973, with federally subsidized housing being built at a record pace room of the Family Court Building at was said to have occurred when the a maze of corridors to be patrolied, be-

-because of legislation enacted during President Lyndon B. Johnson's Administration - President Richard M. Nixon severely curtailed this output. The programs involved, he held, were rife with inefficieocy and scandal

A Democratic-controlled Congress subsequently - passed, and President Ford approved, a new system of tenant rent supplements that today are the dominant form of Federal housing subsidy.

In his campaign, Mr. Carter branded the rent-supplement system ineffective in spurring all the new constructionneeded, and he called for a resurgence of "direct Federal subsidies and lowioterest loans to encourage the construction of low- and middle-income bousing."

For Increased Aid

Mr. Carter argued that "whatever the Nixon and Ford Administrations may think, 'public bousing' and 'subsidized housing' are not dirty words-we know housing all hold in the works when directed by professional local housing authorities." Mr. Carter's view may well have been shaped by his personal experience with low-rent public housing. When he left the Navy in 1953 and returned to his hometown of Plains, Ga., to take over the peanut business of his re-cently deceased father, Mr. Carter, his wife and their young sons lived for a period in a new public housing project in Plains. The President-elect has also cited the very high unemployment among construction workers more than 15 per-ceot nationally, about twice as high as the general unemployment rate. Much of this, labor leaders and others argue, stems from an insufficient recovery by the housing industry, which last year started construction of 1.2 million single-family houses and apartments. This was a 50 percent drop from the last peak year in 1972. In 1976, the industry expects, about

1.5 million units will have been started. But John C. Hart, president of the National Association of Home Builders, says that a more desirable number is 1.8 million starts a year, including several hundred thousand homes for lower-income families now unable to afford new housing. The added 300,000, he suggests, could be spurred by such Presidential steps as loosening restrictions on Fed-eral mortgage subsidies and insurance to foster home ownership hy people earning $11,000 to $20,000 a year. These people are now generally priced out of the market for new single-family houses, Mr. Hart says.

In New York City, where a mere 3,300 apartments and single-family homes were authorized for construction last year-fewer than in the worst year of the Depression-and where losses to the housing stock from decay, fires and abandonment far outpace construction and rehabilitation, a vast resurgence of federally subsidized construction is vital; according to local civic, antipov-

"We need a program of 20,000 new units within two years," says Maurice Paprin, president of the Associated Builders and Owners of Greater New York. He suggest reinstatement of a merigage-subsidy program for apart-ment construction that President Nixon froze.

Overall in the United States, at least seven million households, out of a total of 70 million, live in "physically inadequate" housing and nearly one million more live in seriously overcrowded conditions, according to a joint study by Harvard University and the Massachu-setts Institute of Technology. Only a sharply altered and stepped-up program of Federal construction subsidies and loans will overcome these deficiencies, critics of present Federal policies error policies say.

Against Increased Aid

Opponents of such a change hold that it is not needed. They assert that the housing industry is already in a healthy recovery and that a faster pace would spark further inflation.

Ford Administration officials note that the number of apariments and single-family homes started in September and October represents an annual rate of 1.8 million. They maintain that this reflects a long-term improvement and vindicates the current policy of rent subsidies combined with relatively im-ited and careful "dosages" of construc-tion aid--such as $5 billion in financing gradually released in a mortgage-pur-, chase program to spur apartment construction at reduced borrowing costs.

Others argue that a surge to-build new subsidized bousing, as took place under the programs enacted in the Johnson period, inevitably leads to much should construction, to "rip-offs" by developers and investors seeking tax shelters, and to numerous projects in areas least needing them." George Sternlieb, a Rutgers Univerfact that the Johnson-era housing legislation might have helped draw residents out of troubled older cities of the Northeast, by providing an unduly large amount of new, moderate-cost homes in other areas of the country. This could have contributed to the population and economic declines of the older cities, he says.

"If we have a dupication of he very substantial amounts of new housing with deep subsidy that we had several years ago, it will lead to an increased outmigration from central cities," he predicts.

Still other opponents of sharply stepped-up construction aid holi that, mult the Nixon freeze on programs in 1973, the Federal Government had re-1975, the reneral covernment had re-lied too heavily on new construction to meet the housing needs of the poor, to the detriment of the American taxpaver and the subsidized families themselves.

Comparative Costs Cited

Henry Aaron, a senior fellow at the Brookings Institution, says that new construction is unusually more expensive than the rehabilitation of declining buildings often found in an area. Moreover, he and others assert, hy linking subsidies to specific housing built with Government aid—a key feature of construction-oriented programs—the Gov-ernment promotes construction of sub-sidized "ghettos" and restricts the "mobility" of aided families.

A far better way to deal with sub-A far better way to deal with sub-standard housing and excessive rent burdens, they feel, is to provide needy families with rent subsidies or "hous-ing allowances," to enable them to sock improved quarters in the general housing market.

Specialists on both sides of the issue emphasize that the disagreement is not really a matter of those who favor an exclusively "demand-oriented" Federal approach (subsidizing rents) as against those who favor an exclusively "sup-ply-oriented" policy (promoting new construction).

They say, rather, that both approaches are needed, and that the real issue is how much of each should be stressed to achieve a "proper mix" in Federal housing policy.

The Outlook

While Mr. Carter has yet to present detailed proposals for his promised "re-vitalization" of the housing industry, the chances are that his plans will involve some middle ground-that they will seek more federally-stimulated new construction than the Ford Administration did, but less than some adherents of the expanded-construction approach wish.

This would reflect a growing body of opinion, including that of many Congressional Democrats, that a sound national policy must contain a blending of both construction and rent-paying aid to deal with widely varying local housing conditions.

Agee, the former Central In-Agency operative who last oblished an "expose" of the ince community called "Inside mpany," denied in London ay that he was a threat to security, and he appealed to meet, the Home Secretary, to deportation order against deportation order against agee told Mr. Rees that he impear before an independent. ember panel set up to advise me Secretary of the proposed tion. He asked for two weeks pare his case. Mr. Agee also yer to the Home Office a peti-ning-10,000 names, condemning ortation order issued Nov. 17. been told that he would have Britain, where he has lived time for maintaining con-fereign intelligence officers harmful to British security.

In, the son of the late ager Bessie Smith, filed suit in a court in Philadelphia, alleg-CBS, Inc. and Columbia Recble fees because she was black. contended that the defendants ir predecessor companies had aid Miss Smith, who died io ore than $200 for any of the ie recorded from 1923 to 1933. t maintained that in a receot report, Columbia bad said that of Miss Smith's records were the largest-selling reissues io history, having gross sales of an $6 million. Mr. Gee did not the amount of damages, in the f back royalties, being sought.

iate Justice Lewis F. Powell Jr. saring a business suit, and he sted in the audience instead of bench, when he rose vesterday tioned that Mary Lewis Sumner ristopher Sumner be admitted. Supreme Court bar. Justice assured his colleagues that his er aod son-in-law possess the ny qualifications" to argue cases the natioo's highest court. After time proceedings, Justice Powell donned his black judicial robes and went to the bench for the first case hearing of the week. A Supreme Court spokesman said that "so far as is recalled, this is the first time a sitting Justice has moved his child to admission of the Supreme Court Bar." The Sumners live in Portland, Ore., and are graduates of the University of Virginia Law School, where they met.

Katharine Graham, board chairman an publisher, anoounced yesterday the appointment of Mark J. Meagher as president of the Washington Post Company's newspaper divisioo. The division includes The Washington Post oews-paper, Washington Post Writers Group, the Trenton Times Corp., a warehouse company, and the Post's interests in a paper company and the International Herald Tribune in Paris. Mr. Meagher announced the appointment of Dooald E. Graham, Mrs. Graham's son, as executive vice president and general manager of the Post.

Now that it's become almost chic to admit addictioo to soap operas-people like Lillian Carter, the President-elect's mother, and Supreme Court Associate Justice Thurgood Marshall are "soap" fans-it perhaps comes as no surprise that UCLA Medical Center has been getting "several dozen" calls daily in-quiring about Emily McLaughlan. Miss McLaughlan is usually oo the medical dispensing end of things, in her role as head ourse Jesse Brewer io televisioo's. "General Hospital." But on Nov. 18 the actress, who has been with the show for 13 years, was hospitalized with an undisclosed ailment, and later she was transferred to UCLA Medical Ceoter. A spokesman there said she was io the intensive care unit, suffering from ioternal bleeding.

In the latest development in his cootinuing struggle with French tax officials, an arrest warrant was issued yes-terday for Charles Aznavour, the internationally known, raspy-voiced singer. Mr. Aznavour failed to show up last Friday for a hearing oo his alleged involvement io a tax fraud case, and court officials said he had not offered a satisfactory explanation for his absence. The warrant was issued by Judge Freddy Faucier, in the criminal court at Versailles, where Mr. Aznavour maintains a home. He has demed avoiding French taxes, claiming bis primary recidence is oow in Switzerland. Mr. Azna-vour was charged last April with il-legally channeling earnings to Switzer-

Down in Raymoodville, Tex., Sheriff Oscar Correa was called to the rescue of a party of tenderfeet who had become stuck in the mud io two fourwheel drive vehicles. The party, camping out over the weekend, was headed by Vice President Rockefeller, who had along two of bis sons and some frieods. Sheriff Correa reported that he had asked Mr. Rockefeller how he had bappeoed to get stuck and that the Vice President had explained that be was out checkiog bis buffalo. Twentytwo of the critters roam over Mr. Rockefeller's 6,000-acre ranch north of Raymondville in South Texas. Commeoting on the number of Secret Service meo accompanying the Rockefeller party, Sheriff Correa said, "There was one under every mesquite tree."

It was one of those believe-it-or-out occurrences. At Bidford on Avon, Eogland, Graham Flemons was competing Sunday as a member of the British Parachute Association's free-fall exhibition team. The 25-year-old Mr. Flemons' parachute failed to open, his reserve 'chute became taogled and he plunged more than a mile into a plowed field. Yesterday he was being treated for internal injuries and a brokeo leg suffered in the 7,000-foot fall.

BRENTWOOD, L.I., Nov. 29-Hills Supermarkets Incorporated announced today that it would close eight "unprofitable" stores next Saturday, five of them in Suffolk Couoty and one in Nassaù. A spokesman for the supermarket chaio, which will be left with 43 stores in the New York metropolitan regionafter the closiogs, said he was not sure of the number of employees who would be put out of work. Press reports, how-ever, put the figure at 400, with about 150 to be transferred to other stores, according to officials at Pueblo loternational, the chain's pareot company. Suffolk Coonty's supermarkets and shopping centers have been experiencing hard times in recent years following the failure of population increase predictioos to keep up with retail expansion in the county. The closing of supermarkets causes particular difficulties in shopping centers, since the small shops at the cen-ters often depeod on the daily traffic in supermarket food customers for the bulk f their trade. The Hills stores to be closed are in Northport, Commack. West Babylon, Hauppauge East Setauket, Plainedge, the Bronx, and Yonkers, according to the

TV: Crosby and Knight Specials Fail Despite All Good Intentions

By JOHN J. O'CONNOR

'Tis the season of specials, and CBS s especially busy this week. Among the mixed lot of offerings, tonight's The Tcd Knight Musical Comedy Variety Special Soccial" attempts something a little different. Tomorrow's 'Bing Crosby's White Christmas Spesticks to the traditional inclusion cial' of the entire Crosby family. Both fail.

The Knight special, on at S P.M., represents another instance of throwing a very competent character actor into the role of full-fledged entertainment star, Mr. Knight, who plays the stupendously egotistical Ted Baxter on The Mary Tyler Moore Show," is pleasant and affable and modestly tal-, ented in the art of variety specials, but he doesn't make it as star.

He does use an interesting gimmick The former Tadewurz Konopka of Terryville, Conn., Mr. Knight re-creates a trip he made last year to his home-town to accept a Man of the Year Award, 'Still playing Ted Baxter, he strikes up old acquaintances with typ-ically unjustified assurance, only to run into ego-deflation and sticky sentimentality.

Somewhere in this idea there is the traditional portrait of the "ethnic" per-son succeeding handsomely in America But the special is preoccucied too much of the time with distracting routines. Edward Asner, Rue McClanahan, Phil Silvers, Loretta Swit and Fred MacMurray are brought on for uninspired turns. Ethel Merman, as the local school teacher, gets to sing "No Business Like Show Business" plus, in something of a daily double score, "God Bless America."

The Crosby show tomorrow at 9 P.M. was taped in London, although the setting is supposed to be sunny and snowless California, and it represents the singer's 41st annual Christ-mas presentation. Mr. Crosby is in exceptionally fine voice. Bernadette Peters is fine within the limitations imposed on her. Isolating the key problem, however,

Bing, Kathryn and Nat Crosby Pride in family can be a drag. tends to place the critic in the unenviable role of Scrooge for the bolidays. It is nothing less than the Crosby family. When the children—Mary Frances, Harry and Nathaniel—were toddiers, their presence could be easily tolerated for the sake of family warmth and cute togetherness. Now that they are grown, it is quite evident that they are undeniably nice but singularly untalented young people. To keep foisting them and Kathryn Crosby, Bing's wife, on audiences year after year amounts to foolishness bordering on arrogance.

As a singer, Mr. Crosby happens to be a personal favorite of mine. He still can put a lyric through the marveloos gyrations of imimitable crooning. It would be a pleasure simply to have him appear and sing, supported perhaps by the cest names in show business. His pride in family is certainly laudable but, strictly in terms of performance, it has COINS

Here comes The Number One Woman. For December.

She's a bright-eyed tradition all her own. And her initials are LHJ.

LHJ stands for Ladies' Home Journal. And when it comes time for Christmas, Ladies' Home Journal talks to The Number One Woman.

The woman we have in mind goes for the very best of. yesteryear and the very best of today. And she has a way of putting them together in one happy holiday frame of mind that says something warm and wonderful about the season it is and the woman she is.

To put her in a mood that's partly child, partly Santa Claus and comoletely hers, the December LHJ opens the door to a Christmas world.

You'll find a whole book of cookies. There's a centerpiece Santa with reindeer and sleigh. An easy-to-bake forest of Christmas trees. Old-fashioned butter-doughs that melt in your mouth. Childs-play fun-cookies to make with the kids. And many more cookie ideas for the holidays.

You'll find a treasury of gift and decoration ideas, too, for a Christmas Royale that turns the simplest things into elegant holiday items.

You'll find a Christmas story by Kaatje Hurlbut that rings with the spirit of "Other Miracles, Other Times."

And you'll discover a whole world of people. past and present. There's a human, revealing new book about Dwight D. Eisenhower. And an inspiring story by Carol Burnett. There are pages of midnight fashions on Shirley MacLaine, Raquel Welch, Ann-Margret and Liza Minnelli. There's Gene Shalit on movies, Sylvia Porter and much. much more.

All in the December LHJ.

And it all adds up to this. If you're one of our readers, The Number One Woman is you. And if you're one of our advertisers, The Number One Woman is yours.

For Christmas. And New Year's. And Always.
